

Turning, The (Film Tie-In)

Winton, Tim

Winner of: The Christina Stead Award 2005

The Queensland Premier's Literary Awards - Best Fiction Book

In the 1980s Tim Winton made his mark with tough, spare stories about youth and promise, of early parenthood and the challenges of loyalty. Twenty years later, he returned to the form with 'The Turning', seventeen overlapping stories of second thoughts and mid-life regret set in the brooding small-town world of coastal Western Australia.

Here are turnings of all kinds - changes of heart, nasty surprises, slow awakenings, sudden detours - where people struggle against the terrible weight of the past and challenge the lives they've made for themselves.

Much acclaimed both here and overseas, this tough, tender and elegiac collection is the biggestselling collection of stories from Australia in modern times and has now been made into a major motion film.

The Author

Tim Winton has published twenty-one books for adults and children, which have been acclaimed both in Australian and abroad. He has won the Miles Franklin Literary Award four times, and has been shortlisted for the Booker Prize twice. He lives in Western Australia.

Loss of Innocence

North Patterson, Richard

June, 1968. America is in a state of turbulence, engulfed in civil unrest and uncertainty. Yet for Whitney Dane - spending the summer of her twenty-second year on Martha's Vineyard - life could not be safer, nor the future more certain. Educated at Wheaton, soon to be married, and the youngest daughter of the patrician Dane family, Whitney has everything she has ever wanted, and is everything her all powerful and doting father, Charles Dane, wants her to be.

But the Vineyard's still waters are disturbed by the appearance of Benjamin Blaine. An underprivileged, yet fiercely ambitious and charismatic young man, Blaine is a force of nature neither Whitney nor her family could have prepared for.

As Ben's presence begins to awaken independence within Whitney, it also brings deeprooted Dane tensions to a dangerous head. And soon Whitney's gilded future becomes far from certain, and her picture-perfect family far from pretty.

The Author

Richard North Patterson is the author of twenty bestselling novels. He lives in Martha's Vineyard, Cabo San Lucas and San Francisco with his wife, Dr Nancy Clair.

Counselor, The McCarthy, Cormac

In early 2012 it was announced that Cormac McCarthy had written his first original screenplay – news which provoked huge excitement, a swift deal and the appointment of Ridley Scott to direct.

But this is no ordinary screenplay. This is a work of extraordinary imagination which draws on many of the themes of McCarthy's work as well as taking it to new dark places. It is also written with great descriptive passages counteracting the dialogue, so the reader is given the full experience of the McCarthy prose.

It is the story of a lawyer, the Counselor, a man who is so seduced by the desire to get rich, to impress his fiancée Laura, that he becomes involved in a drug-smuggling venture that quickly takes him way out of his depth. His contacts in this are the mysterious and probably corrupt Reiner and the seductive Malkina, so exotic her pets of choice are two cheetahs. As the action crosses the Mexican border, things become darker, more violent and more sexually disturbing than the Counselor has ever imagined.

The Author

Cormac McCarthy is the author of eleven acclaimed novels. Among his honours are the National Book Award, the National Book Critics Circle Award and the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction.

Eye for an Eye

Coes, Ben

When Dewey Andreas uncovers the identity of a mole embedded at a high level in Israel's Mossad, it triggers a larger, more dangerous plot. The mole was the most important asset of Chinese Intelligence, and Fao Bhang, head of China's Ministry of State Security (MSS), responds to the discovery and brutal elimination of the mole, by immediately placing a kill order on the man responsible - Dewey Andreas.

Dewey is tracked to Argentina, where he is on vacation with his fiancée, Jessica Tanzer, a U.S. National Security Advisor. A top-level kill team is sent in quickly and quietly, but their attack fails to take out Dewey. The collateral damage, however, is both horrifying and deeply personal. With nothing left to lose, Andreas is determined to have his revenge. Once he learns who is probably behind the attack - and why they are after him - Dewey goes rogue, using all of his assets and skills to launch a counterattack. Andreas must now face the full weight and might of the MSS, Chinese Intelligence, and the formidable Fao Bhang, if he's to achieve his one last goal: revenge on a biblical scale, no matter the odds or the armies that he will have to fight his way through. Andreas - former Army Ranger and Delta - is a man of great skills and cunning. His opponent, Fao Bhang, is ruthless, determined, and with no limit to the assets at his disposal. In this conflict, there are only two possible outcomes. And only one Dewey Andreas.

Dark Heart

Park, Tony

Lawyer Mike Ioannou is dead after a hit and run in Thailand. A home invasion threatens the life of medico Richard Dunlop. In Johannesburg, a car jacker nearly kills photo journalist Liesl Nel. Unrelated incidents in a dangerous world, or something else entirely?

Australian war crimes prosecutor Carmel Shang joins the dots. All three victims are linked by a photograph that was clutched in the hand of a dying man nearly twenty years ago. The picture holds a clue to how madness gripped a country resulting in a million people losing their lives.

Carmel has to not only confront the perpetrators of the unprecedented slaughter, but Richard and Liesl, the two people she never wanted to see again. Richard was the UN military doctor she was in love with in Rwanda, and Liesl was the woman who came between them. Now they are thrown together again, desperately trying to find out why the photograph is making them the targets of an assassin.

In a quest that takes them from South Africa's Kruger National Park to Zambia, Australia, and back to Rwanda, where it all began, they find that amidst the indestructible majesty and beauty of Africa, yesterday's merchants of death are dealing in a new currency - illegal traditional medicine and the barbaric live trade in endangered African wildlife; businesses they're prepared to kill for to protect.

Song From Dead Lips, A

Shaw, William

London, October 1968. As Beatles fans encamp outside Abbey Road Studios up the road, the Marylebone CID is as much an old boys' club as it ever was: comfortably sexist, racially prejudiced and crawling with corruption.

Detective Sergeant Cathal Breen is the pariah of the office, having just run out on a fellow officer held at knifepoint, when it's shaken up by the arrival of WPC Helen Tozer: awkward chatterbox, farmgirl, and the first woman to enter the murder unit - apart from the secretary.

When a young woman is found naked and strangled in well-to-do St John's Wood, her identity is a mystery. The neighbours offer nothing but xenophobic suspicions, witnesses are staying silent; only Tozer's savvy gives Breen a lead.

Following it, resourceless, deep into the rural backwaters, Breen sees one dead body lead to another - a trail of bloodshed taking them dangerously close to a killer with everything to lose.

The first in a trilogy featuring DS Breen and WPC Tozer, set against a clashing backdrop of sixties idealism and a corrupted CID on the brink of exposure.

The Author

William Shaw was born in Newton Abbot, Devon, and lived for sixteen years in Hackney. For over twenty years he has written on popular culture and subculture for various publications including the "Observer" and the "New York Times". 'A Song from Dead Lips' is his first novel. He lives in Brighton.

Missing File, The

Mishani, D. A.

A sixteen-year-old boy is missing in a Tel Aviv suburb. His mother is worried. Inspector Avraham Avraham is not. It is unheard of for children to vanish in this city.

"He'll be home in an hour, maybe three hours, tomorrow morning at the latest. I can assure you."

But there's a first time for everything. And, as time begins to pass, and the boy is still nowhere to be found, Avraham finds himself facing this horrible truth.

'The Missing File' presents a seemingly average detective and a seemingly routine investigation, and then shows both to be far from what they seem.

The Author

D. A. Mishani is an editor of Israeli fiction and international crime literature, as well as a literary scholar specialising in the history of detective literature. 'The Missing File' is his first novel.

Selling Points

- As tense and impossible to second-guess as 'The Killing' and 'The Devotion of Suspect X'

Playing With Fire: Jessica Daniel Book 5

Wilkinson, Kerry

Those who play with fire are going to get burned...

Seven years ago Martin Chadwick set fire to a Manchester pub, not knowing a teenager was sleeping inside. Chadwick's release from prison is imminent, with journalists gearing up for a good old-fashioned media lynching.

With the victim's father telling the papers he is out for revenge, DS Jessica Daniel is left to keep an eye on Chadwick and his fiery eighteen-year-old son.

If that's not enough to keep her occupied, a private investigator is doing a fine job sticking his oar in, it looks like there's a schoolgirl suicide ring in operation, her car is working a little too well, and the endless rain continues to pound her northern home.

Jessica's personal and professional life is in the balance - giving her barely enough time to focus on the person in her midst seemingly intent on burning everything to the ground.

The Author

Kerry Wilkinson is something of an accidental author. His debut, Locked In, the first title in the detective Jessica Daniel series, was written as a challenge to himself but, after self-publishing, it became a UK Number One bestseller within three months of release. Kerry then went on to have more success with the second and third titles in the series, Vigilante and The Woman in Black. Kerry has a degree in journalism and works for a national media company. He was born in Somerset but now lives in Lancashire. For more information about Kerry and his books visit his website: www.kerrywilkinson.com or www.panmacmillan.com

Flat Water Tuesday

Irwin, Ron

The son of a working-class cabinet-maker, Rob Carrey arrives on the prestigious Fenton School's campus with a scholarship to row...and a chip on his shoulder. Generations of austere Fenton men have led the four-man rowing team, known as the God Four, to countless victories - but none more important or renowned as the annual Tuesday-afternoon race in April against their rival boarding school, Warwick.

But first Rob must complete months of preparation driven by their captain, Connor Payne's, vicious competitive nature. Payne is a young man so plagued by family pressure and unwillingness to lose, that the lines between dedication and obsession are increasingly blurred, and as the Warwick race nears, the stakes steadfastly rise, tempers and lusts are fueled, and finally no one can prevent the horrible tragedy that befalls one of them.

Now, fifteen years later, Rob is an accomplished documentary filmmaker. Returning home from a recent shoot in Africa, he arrives in New York City to clear out his shared apartment, and end his heartbreaking relationship with his film editor and girlfriend, Carolyn. But when a phone call from one of the God Four compels him to attend the 15-year reunion at Fenton, no part of Rob's past remains sequestered for long.

- "Flat Water Tuesday is the best debut novel I've read this year, a compulsively readable dark drama that weaves multiple storylines toward one marvelous denouement. Ron Irwin writes with confidence and skill and authenticity in this exploration of identity and the poisonous fuel of ambition. It will call other books - 'A Separate Peace', 'The Art of Fielding' - to mind but stands alone as an original and powerful work. I'll read anything Irwin writes after this." - Michael Koryta, "New York Times" bestselling author of 'The Prophet'

- "In Ron Irwin's capable hands, past and present fuse into a haunting meditation on class, guilt, and the perils of victory. You don't need to have set foot in a scull to be swept along by this affecting book. 'Flat Water Tuesday' is the debut of a deft and talented new voice." - Eric Puchner, author of Pen/Faulkner Award-finalist, 'Model Home'

Malice

Gwynne, John

Young Corban watches enviously as boys become warriors, learning the art of war. He yearns to wield his sword and spear to protect his king's realm. But that day will come all too soon. Only when he loses those he loves will he learn the true price of courage.

Robinson, Peter

"A long, oily blackness punctuated by quick, vivid dreams... They were all just dreams. She couldn't possibly see these things, could she? Her eyes were closed. And if they really happened, then she would have screamed out from the pain, wouldn't she?"

When she awakes in hospital, she has no recollection of that brutal night. But then, slowly and painfully, details reveal themselves: dreams of two figures, one white and one black, hovering over her; wisps of a strange and haunting song; the unfamiliar texture of a rough and deadly hand...

Robinson, Peter

The fifth Inspector Banks novel

It should have been a cosy scene - log fire, sheepskin rug, Vivaldi on the stereo, Christmas lights and tree. But appearances can be deceptive. For Caroline Hartley, lying quietly on the couch, has been brutally murdered.

Inspector Alan Banks is called to the grim scene. And he soon has more suspects than he ever imagined. As he delves into her past, he realizes that for Caroline, secrecy was a way of life, and her death is no different. His ensuing investigation is full of hidden passions and desperate violence...

Outlaw Bikers in Australia

McNabb, Duncan

In 2013, Australia achieved a unique place in the history of outlaw motorcycle gangs, boasting the highest per capita membership in the world. So just what are these gangs, and who makes up their membership?

Drawing on insights from his experience as a former Sydney detective, Duncan McNab gives the inside history of outlaw biker gangs in Australia. From the bad old days of the 1960s when the first outlaw biker clubs entered into amphetamine manufacture, through to the 1984 Milperra Massacre that made world headlines, to the Sydney airport brawl between the Hell's Angels and Comancheros culminating in the brutal death of Anthony Zervas, 'Outlaw Bikers in Australia' sheds light on how the 'one per cent deviants' have gained a stranglehold on the recreational drug market and are becoming major players in the international outlaw scene.

This is the dramatic story of the rise and rise of Australia's outlaw motorcycle clubs by the bestselling author of 'Killing Mr Rent-a-Kill', 'The Usual Suspect - The Life of Abe Saffron' and 'The Dodger'.

Duncan McNab is a former policeman and private investigator. He's worked as a journalist covering current affairs for both the ABC and the Nine Network.

It's Too Late to Die Young Now

Mueller, Andrew

There is no field of journalism more mythologised or more derided than rock journalism - with good reason, according to Andrew Mueller.

And he'd know. Starting out writing for the Sydney music street press in his teens, by his early twenties, Mueller was working for the legendary UK music weekly 'Melody Maker', earning a living by listening to records, going to gigs, hanging out in seedy pubs and travelling the world with his favourite rock groups. In barely two years, he went from a childhood bedroom with a poster of Robert Smith to The Cure's tour bus in the United States.

Though it didn't seem like it at the time, the years Mueller was living the dream - the late-eighties to the mid-nineties - were actually the last hurrah for the music scene as we knew it. The era of flourishing live pub venues and record stores, and rock journalists as cultural arbiters and agitators, is now long gone.

An 'Almost Famous' for Generation X, 'It's Too Late To Die Young Now' is Mueller's hilarious and heartfelt eulogy to a life that seems even less probable now than it did at the time. Featuring cameo appearances from luminaries of the Seattle grunge boom and the Britpop response to it, and encounters with the likes of U2, The Cure, Pearl Jam, The Fall and Elvis Costello, 'It's Too Late To Die Young Now' answers the question: what became of the rock writer the day the music died?

The Author

Andrew Mueller was born in Wagga Wagga, Australia, and lives in London, England. He is a Contributing Editor at 'Monocle', regularly broadcasts on Monocle 24, and also writes with varying frequency for 'The Guardian', 'Uncut' and 'The New Humanist', among many others, on a wide variety of subjects, even if the only things he really cares about are country music and the Geelong Football Club. He is the author of two other books of only slightly self-aggrandising non-fiction, 'I Wouldn't Start From Here' and 'Rock and Hard Places'.

Under the Wire

Conroy, Paul

Determined to cover the Syrian regime's brutal crackdown on dissent and the devastating impact of the war on Syria's civilians, veteran photographer Paul Conroy and Marie Colvin, one of the foremost war correspondents of her generation, decided to smuggle themselves across enemy lines and into the blood and terror of Homs.

But tragedy struck before the pair could finish documenting the slaughter. A rocket killed Colvin and ripped a hole in Conroy's leg. As Syrian ground forces closed in on his position, Conroy was forced to make a terrifying last-ditch attempt to escape from a regime that appeared determined to murder him.

'Under the Wire' is the epic, untold account of Conroy and Colvin's last, tragic assignment together. A rare and touching portrait of an extraordinary woman driven by an unquenchable desire to 'bear witness', it is as much a tale of courage and survival as it is the poignant account of a friendship forged amid the carnage of war.

The Author

Paul Conroy was born in Liverpool and joined the army at sixteen. During his seven years in the army he developed a passion for music and photography. He became involved in journalism when a group of road protestors invited him to film and shoot stills on a mission to the Balkans. Conroy ended up staying in the Balkans to shoot his own documentary. A veteran of some of the world's most dangerous warzones, his career has seen him making documentaries for the BBC and Sky, as well as becoming head of photography and film for the singer Joss Stone.

Give Me Excess of It

Gill, Richard

Richard Gill is one of Australia's best-known - and best-loved - musical figures. His career has taken him from teaching music in Sydney's western suburbs to Music Director of the Victorian Opera, and along the way an involvement with almost every major opera company and orchestra in Australia.

What truly distinguishes Richard is his passion and enthusiasm for spreading not just the joy of music, but its myriad benefits. He is our greatest musical educator, and his life's work - alongside his other roles - has been advocating music in our education system, and furthering the development of those who've gone on to choose music as a vocation. He brings music to life, and his knowledge and deep enjoyment of his subject is as inspiring and enlightening to a class of primary school students as it is to the cast of a major opera.

'Give Me Excess of It' is Richard's memoir, tracing his life from school days to the highs (and lows) of conducting and directing an opera company. It's warm, extremely funny, highly opinionated, occasionally rude (where warranted) and always sublimely full of the love of music.

The Author

Richard Gill is an internationally respected music educator and conductor. He was Founding Dean of the West Australian Conservatorium of Music, has been Director of Chorus and conductor for Opera Australia, has been Artistic Director of OzOpera, Artistic Director and Chief Conductor of the Canberra Symphony Orchestra and the Adviser for the Musica Viva in Schools program. He has conducted all the Symphony Australia Network Orchestras and was the Founding Music Director of Victorian Opera. He is currently Conductor Emeritus of Victorian Opera, Artistic Director of the Sydney Symphony Education Program, and Artistic Director of the Sydney Symphony Sinfonia.

Chopper 1: From the Inside

Read, Mark

"Apart from Irish whiskey, good cigars, Pontiac motor cars, and a pistol grip baby .410 shotgun with solid load shells, what I love the most is kidnapping smartarse gangsters and taking their money. To the human filth I have bashed, belted, iron barred, axed, shot, stabbed, knee capped, set on fire and driven to their graves, I can only quote from the motto of the French Foreign Legion, 'Je Ne Regrette Rien'... I REGRET NOTHING."

Mark Brandon "Chopper" Read is the son of a strict Seventh Day Adventist mother and a shell-shocked soldier who slept with a loaded gun at his side. Bullied at school, he grew up dreaming of revenge, determined to be the toughest and hardest of them all. He became a criminal legend who terrorised drug dealers, pimps, thieves and armed robbers on the streets and in jail - but boasts he never hurt an innocent member of the public.

This first volume of Chopper's memoirs, written from inside jail, tells the story of his early life of crime - from streetfighter to standover man, gunman to long-term prisoner. Chopper 2: Hits & Memories

Read, Mark

"It was just after dawn on Thursday, November 14, 1991. The hatch on the cell door slid back. I could see the screw's face through the slit. I've seen better heads on a pig dog, but this time I could have kissed him."

Underworld standover man and executioner Mark Brandon "Chopper" Read was released from Pentridge Prison in November, 1991, vowing never to return. He became an instant celebrity when his autobiography 'Chopper: From the Inside' hit the bestseller lists (it also holds the record as Australia's most shop-lifted book). Six months later he was back in jail writing his second volume of memoirs.

In this sequel, Chopper reveals his struggle to cope with 'civilian life', from the highs of gambling thousands of dollars at a legal casino to the lows of facing the rest of his life in prison. He also reveals more of the stories of criminal activity that made his first book an international publishing sensation, from bookie robberies to hitmen, slavery and kidnapping.

Written with dark humour and an intimate knowledge of some of Australia's most notorious criminals and crimes, 'Hits and Memories' is a unique look at Australia's underbelly.

Chopper 3: How to Shoot Friends and Influence People

Read, Mark

"Crims and screws agree on one thing: that the people who run prisons wouldn't know if a tram was up them unless you rang the bell."

'How to Shoot Friends and Influence People', Mark Brandon "Chopper" Read's third book, was written behind bars as Chopper faced life in prison for a shooting he claimed he didn't commit. For this book, Chopper obtained confidential and extensive prison files relating to him under the Freedom of Information Act. These included psychological assessments, plus prison classification and discipline records. They provide a fascinating insight into how this maverick criminal dealt with the prison system over two decades.

Including the infamous story of Tanya and Eddy, Chopper's coming-of-age yarn from his 18th birthday, plus reflections on the end of his long-term relationship and what it's like to be the most famous author in residence at Risdon Prison, this third volume of his memoirs also contains more tales of the criminal underworld told in Chopper's unique style.

Chopper 4: For the Term of His Unnatural Life

Read, Mark

"The governor called me into his office one fine day and in his best serious voice with his best serious look told me I could no longer write letters to my publishers because it appeared to him that I was trying to write another book. The man should have been a rocket scientist..."

The fourth volume of Mark "Chopper" Read's memoirs were written behind bars, against the wishes of the prison authorities and smuggled out in the form of letters.

Including stories about drinking with Bob Hawke, Chopper's reflections on the closing of the infamous H-Division section of Pentridge Jail, his unique take on race relations, sex and relationships, 'For the Term of His Unnatural Life' gives more fascinating insight into the mind and life of one of Australia's most notorious criminals, and what daily life behind bars in maximum security prison is actually like.

Bleakly funny and disturbingly real, Chopper's memoirs have become international bestsellers and made him one of Australia's most famous - or infamous - names.

Dolan, Hugh

When Australian troops stormed Z Beach in the pre-dawn darkness of 25 April 1915, it was the culmination of one of the most complex and daunting operations in the history of warfare - a seaborne assault on a heavily fortified shore, defended by a well-prepared and forewarned army. To add to the difficulty, the assault was planned and executed in just thirty-six days.

The risks were enormous, and the death toll on the beach at Anzac Cove could have been catastrophic - as it was with the British landings further south. Yet the ANZACs had been allowed to organise their own assault, and their ingenuity, intelligence-gathering and willingness to do the unorthodox allowed them to seize a foothold and fulfil the task they had been set by their commanders. All too often the scale of that task and the successful way the ANZACs approached it have been overshadowed by events later in the campaign.

Hugh Dolan, an intelligence officer in the Australian military, has minutely re-examined the assault itself, giving us a day-by-day account of the build-up to the landing that shows a very different side to the Gallipoli story. Drawing on a wealth of previously unpublished material and research, he has produced a riveting work of narrative history that sheds a fresh light on the original ANZACs.

The Author

Hugh Dolan is a Squadron Leader in the Australian Air Force. He is currently researching the air battles over Gallipoli at the Australian Defence Force Academy. He has worked in minor headquarters roles in Australia and overseas. He describes his military service to be within range of map tables and the coffee percolator. His military career started 15 years ago with enlistment in the British Army as a private. He served in Bosnia as a junior NCO and witnessed the importance of military intelligence in operation planning.

Selling Points

- The gripping account of how - against all odds - the ANZACs planned and implemented their Gallipoli landing
- Extensively researched and highly readable account of one of the most crucial periods in Australia's history
- There is a strong market for highly readable military history such as 'The Bone Man of Kokoda', 'Flak', 'Hellfire', 'The Great War', 'Gallipoli', 'Goodbye Cobber'
- Sales of Les Carlyon's 'Gallipoli' illustrate the huge market there is for books on this subject: approximately 60,000 hardbacks sold in the first four months of publication, and approximately 100,000 paperbacks sold to date
- Sales of John Hamilton's 'Goodbye Cobber' (of 21,000 trade paperbacks) and 'Gallipoli Sniper' (of 22,000 trade paperbacks) also demonstrate the demand that's out there for these books
- "Well researched and a gripping read." The Daily Telegraph
- "A fresh perspective to our understanding of Australia's most mythologised battlefield." Sun Herald

So don't just think about changing your life. Do it.

- Discover the simple idea that changes everything
- Lose weight
- Stop smoking
- Feel instantly younger

He is the author of the international bestseller '59 Seconds', is frequently quoted by the media and his research has been featured on over 150 television programmes across the world.

Maggie: Her Fatal Legacy

Sergeant, John

The new bestseller from the author of 'Give Me Ten Seconds': an alternative biography of one of the most remarkable political leaders of the twentieth-century - Margaret Thatcher.

'Maggie' is John Sergeant's mordant analysis of Margaret Thatcher's career and, more importantly, the legacy she has left to the Conservative party, which he would argue has been little short of disastrous.

'Maggie' takes us from the glory days of three successive election victories to the machinations that saw her departure from 10 Downing Street and to the years since, during which she has exerted a remarkable and sometimes baleful influence on the party she once led. Sergeant brings to bear his trademark wit and keen sense of the absurd but also his deep understanding of the British political arena and an insight born of thirty years reporting on events in Westminster.

His access to those who worked for her, with her and against her is unique, from Michael Heseltine to Norman Tebbit, from John Major to Chris Patten and even Tony Blair. It is vintage Sergeant and indispensable to anyone wishing to understand Margaret Thatcher's enduring influence.

The Author

John Sergeant was until recently Political Editor of ITN, which he joined in 2000, after being Chief Political Correspondent of the BBC for the previous twelve years. His career as a political journalist has spanned more than thirty years. His autobiography, 'Give Me Ten Seconds', was published by Macmillan in 2001.

Selling Points

- Positive reviews in the UK and Australia

Praise for 'Maggie':

• "You might imagine a book about a has-been PM to be dull, but Sergeant has a beguiling way with him... a convincing portrait of a once-powerful woman, flattered by foreigners but bored and disruptive at home." (Independent on Sunday)

• "Sergeant's dark, Miss Haversham-style portrait is made all the more authentic by the obvious awe in which he once held his subject." (The New Statesman)

Periodic Table, The

Parsons, Paul and Dixon, Gail

As one of the most recognizable images in science, the periodic table is ingrained in our culture. First drawn up in 1869 by Dmitri Mendeleev, its 118 elements make up not only everything on our planet but also everything in the entire universe.

'The Periodic Table' looks at the fascinating story and surprising uses of each of those elements, whether solid, liquid or gas. From the little-known uses of gold in medicine to the development of the hydrogen bomb, each entry is accompanied by technical data (category, atomic number, weight, boiling point) presented in easy-to-read headers, and a colour-coding system that helps the reader to navigate through the different groups of elements.

A remarkable display of thought-provoking science and beautiful photography, this guide will allow the reader to discover the world afresh.

The Author

Dr Paul Parsons is a regular contributor to "Nature", "New Scientist" and the "Daily Telegraph". He frequently appears on BBC radio and his television credits include "Richard & Judy" and "BBC Breakfast". He was formerly editor of the BBC's awardwinning science and technology magazine "Focus". His book 'The Science of Doctor Who' was longlisted for the 2007 Royal Society Prize for Science Books. Gail Dixon is a journalist and editor. She recently co-authored '3-minute Hawking', the most up-to-date book on the greatest living theoretical physicist. She has also worked as a commissioning editor for BBC Focus magazine.

"Make no mistake. Lüc Carl is the real deal." —RUNNER'S WORLD

THE DRUNK DIET

HOW I LOST
40 POUNDS...WASTED:
A MEMOIR

Lüc Carl

Drunk Diet, The Carl, Luc

'The Drunk Diet' is the beer-soaked tale of a long-haired, leather-clad Rock 'N Roll party-maker who transformed a whiskey-and-5-A.M.-cheeseburger lifestyle into a wildly successful weight-loss regime.

Lüc Carl fit the part as a bar manager in New York City's gritty Lower East Side with his snakeskin spandex pants and hot rod. And life was good for this Omaha, Nebraska, transplant - a talented drummer who originally moved to the big city to pursue his Rock 'N Roll dreams - until, suddenly, it wasn't. Fast forward through seven years of working long hours, bingeing on late-night Chinese food, and drinking excessively; life had found Lüc forty pounds overweight and completely out of shape. But after reading countless fitness books and being told time and again that it's impossible to lose weight while drinking alcohol he decided to take matters into his own hands to transform his body and his life his way - a sort of "f*ck you" to all those so-called experts.

Full of charismatic wit and raucous stories about his life, 'The Drunk Diet' will inspire and challenge you to become fitter, healthier, and happier. Lüc's fitness philosophy isn't about following a list of rigid rules, but discovering what you're personally willing to change about your lifestyle in order to reach your goals. For him, that meant trading in the crap he was eating for unprocessed, natural foods and embracing a newfound love for exercise, but never sacrificing his social life (or his love for cold beer).

The Author

Lüc Carl is an author, the voice of rock 'n roll on SiriusXM satellite radio, long-distance runner, semi-professional bowler, drummer, party maker, and running coach having multiple certifications in track & field and endurance. After moving to the big city at a young age, he worked is way up, managing his own rock 'n roll bar by the age of 25. After years of hard living his quest to become the sexiest man in the world has been chronicled on his wildly successful blog. He is originally from Omaha, NE. Go Big Red.

Selling Points

- This is the story of how one chain-smoking, hard-partying, self-proclaimed "out-of-shape, bloated asshole" grew into an avid runner and cyclist and, ultimately, a happier version of himself
- If you've ever felt intimidated by the whey-guzzling, creatine-popping models on muscle magazine covers, or unmotivated by ridiculously buff fitness gurus who swear you can look just like them if you simply follow their completely unrealistic, masochistic program...OR if you want to read about a regular guy who managed to change his life for the better, this book is for you

Meaning of Liff, The

Adams, Douglas and Lloyd, John

In Life* there are many hundreds of common experiences, feelings, situations and even objects which we all know and recognize, but for which no words exist.

On the other hand, the world is littered with thousands of spare words which spend their time doing nothing but loafing about on signposts pointing at places.

Douglas Adams and John Lloyd saw it as their job to get these words down off the signposts and into the mouths of babes and sucklings and so on, where they could start earning their keep in everyday conversation and make a more positive contribution to society. The Meaning of Liff was the bestselling humour book that resulted. It sold hundreds of thousands of copies and remains to this day, nearly thirty years later, a much-loved classic of its kind.

*And, indeed, Liff

The Author

Douglas Adams was the world-famous creator of the 'Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy', which has been a radio sitcom, a TV drama, a film and a series of bestselling novels. He was also the author of, among other things, two novels starring the metaphysical detective Dirk Gently: 'Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective Agency' and 'The Long Dark Teatime of the Soul'. John Lloyd is one of the most successful television comedy producers of all time, having been responsible for "Not the Nine O'Clock News", "Blackadder", "QI" and "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy".

Steppin' Razor: The Life of Peter Tosh

Masouri, John

The very first biography of Peter Tosh, rude boy, founder member of The Wailers and a compelling recording artist in his own right. Tosh was an abrasive man who would eventually fall victim to his own uncompromising personality, ultra-radical politics and a fearsome 'gangsta' reputation. One of reggae's most extraordinary stories, the life of Peter Tosh could have only one end. He was murdered in a gunfight at his own home in 1987. One year later his album 'No Nuclear War' won the first ever Grammy award for best reggae album.

Here are the women, the drugs and the story behind 'Legalise It', Tosh's famous early plea for the decriminalisation of marijuana. His personal musical odyssey is explored in detail as he strove to emerge from the shadow of Bob Marley, eventually signing a contract with Rolling Stones Records.

Tosh's darker side is also revealed and the book includes an account of a notorious standoff with Keith Richards involving a machete and a loaded rifle!

The Author

An experienced writer on music of black origin, John Masouri has been a contributor to "Echoes" since 1990 and his work has appeared in "Mojo", "Music Week", "The Guardian" and "NME". Download!

Hardy, Phil

Download chronicles of the making of the new record industry, from the boom years of the CD revolution of the late 1980s to the crisis of the present day, with particular stress on the last decade.

It follows the actions and reactions of the major international record companies, five at the beginning of the story, now four, as they ploughed their way through the digital slough of despond, bewildered by the fleet-of-foot digital innovators far more responsive to the changing marketing conditions through which (recorded) music was consumed and valued.

These all have their significant place in Download but the real story is the structural change that has, almost surreptitiously, taken place, within the music business. This change, for reasons author Phil Hardy will explain in detail, has left the captains of the record industry as unable to act as they were unwilling to act. In effect they became little but very well paid observers of the shrinking of their domains.

Every Night's A Saturday Night

Keys, Bobby and Ditenhafer, Bill

'Every Night's A Saturday Night' finds Keys setting down the many tales of an over-the-top rock 'n' roll life in his own inimitable voice.

Bobby Keys has lived the kind of life that qualifies as a rock 'n' roll folktale. In his early teens, Keys bribed his way into neighbour Buddy Holly's garage band rehearsals, then took up the saxophone because it was the only instrument left unclaimed in the school band. While still in his teens, he convinced his grandfather to sign his guardianship over to Crickets drummer J.I. Allison so that Keys could go on tour.

Keys spent years on the road during the early days of rock 'n' roll. He was a top touring and session sax man for the likes of mad Dogs and Englishmen, George Harrison and John Lennon. In 1970 he began his gig with The Rolling Stones.

With a foreword by Keith Richards and exclusive interviews with famous friends and fellow travellers, like Joe Cocker and Jim Keltner, Every Night's A Saturday Night paints a unique picture of the coming-of-age of rock 'n' roll itself while celebrating how Key's raw talent and outsized personality have elevated him from sideman to rock icon.

CUPID STUNTS

THE LIFE AND
RADIO TIMES OF
KENNY EVERETT

DAVID & CAROLINE STAFFORD

Cupid Stunts

Stafford, David and Caroline

On paper, Kenny Everett's qualifications did not look promising - not much in the way of education, physique or social skills, just a gift for funny voices, an oblique imagination and a way with a tape recorder. Yet, by an odd twist of fate, when in the 1960's and 70's the British radio revolution transformed the aural landscape, funny voices, oblique imagination and a way with a tape recorder were the precise and perfect qualities the world was crying out for. Ever a corporate player, Kenny was frequently fired, yet still went on to reinvent television. Meanwhile, outside the studios, the challenge to 'get a life' brought moments of ecstasy, frequent bother and at least one suicide attempt. And at the exact moment when tabloid frenzy about the AIDS epidemic reached its peak, he came out.

This new biography, based on intricate documentary research as well as interviews with colleagues, friends and enemies - including Alexei Sayle, Barry Cryer, David Mallet and "Whispering" Bob Harris - not only gets under the skin of the man, but also gives a taste of the times.

It captures the novelty and excitement of hearing all-pop radio for the first time, the terror and bluster of the high-ups, the brilliant blossoming of gay culture throughout the 70s and 80s, and the tragedy and vile hypocrisy that surrounded the AIDS epidemic.

Procol Harum

Scott-Irvine, Henry

Formed in the 1960s, 'Prog Rock' British group Procol Harum are best known for their multi million selling single A Whiter Shade of Pale which is the most played record by a British artist of the last 70 years. This book tells the story of their formation in Essex in the 1960s, their split on their tenth anniversary in 1977 and their reforming in 1991.

It gives details of one of the costliest court cases in British music history whereby a judge awarded a 40% share in the copyright of A Whiter Shade of Pale, to a former organist of the band. Lead singer Gary Brooker and lyricist Keith Reid always claimed credit for the hit, which became part of the soundtrack of 1967. But in his ruling, the judge decided that organist Matthew Fisher was entitled to both credit and royalties.

Brings the story right up to date with detail of their album releases and tours over the last decade.

Mark Hodkinson

Marianne Faithfull

Hodkinson, Mark

Marianne Faithfull was the perfect icon of the Swinging Sixties; her life as colourful as the decade itself. A quiet but beautiful convent girl, she became internationally famous through her relationship with Mick Jagger of The Rolling Stones.

'As Years Go By' is a richly detailed portrait of a woman who has lived an incredible life, one that far transcends her best known role as courtesan to the chief Rolling Stone.

From aristocratic lineage to convent school, stardom to attempted suicide, junkie to punk, folk singer to torch chanteuse, Marianne has seen her life flash by in banner headlines.

Researched through over 50 interviews with her family, former lovers and friends, 'As Years Go By' reveals the truth behind the headlines, the person behind the profile.

Updated and extensively revised by one of the UK's most acclaimed writers, it is a candid, illuminating account of an endearing yet misunderstood artist.

The Author

Mark Hodkinson is an acclaimed journalist, author and broadcaster. He has written for "The Times" for many years, three as a columnist, and made several radio documentaries for BBC Radio 4. He owns the independent publishing house, Pomona Books.

If You Want to See a Whale

Fogliano, Julie & Stead, Erin (illust.)

If you want to see a whale, you will need to know what not to look at.

Pink roses, pelicans, possible pirates...

If you want to see a whale, you have to keep your eyes on the sea, and wait...

In this quiet and beautiful picture book by Julie Fogliano and Erin E. Stead, the team that created the Boston Globe-Horn Book Honor book 'And Then It's Spring', a boy learns exactly what it takes to catch a glimpse of an elusive whale.

The Author

Julie Fogliano lives in the Hudson Valley with her husband and their three children. This is her second book. Her first was the "New York Times" bestseller 'And Then It's Spring', which received five starred reviews. Erin E. Stead first met Julie Fogliano while working together in a New York City bookstore. Today she lives in a 100-year-old barn in Ann Arbor, Michigan, with her husband, Philip, who is an author and illustrator, and with whom she created 'A Sick Day for Amos McGee', winner of the 2011 Caldecott Medal, as well as 'Bear has a Story to Tell'. She also illustrated 'And Then It's Spring'.
