Best Man, The

Blacklock, Dianne

Everything seems to be going perfectly in Madeleine's life - she's a successful publicist in a book publishing house, and through work has met the love of her life, children's author Henry Darrow, who she's convinced is the loveliest man on earth.

Things haven't always been so perfect for Madeleine, though. When her father died suddenly, it hit her hard; at the same time she struggled with the demands of her lifestyle and felt as though her life was spinning out of control. Until she met Henry.

Now they are set to marry and live happily ever after when their best man arrives in town - handsome, charming and ever attentive, Aiden is a welcome visitor. But his presence soon causes ripples in the happy couple's world, as he brings secrets with him - and starts to unravel some of Madeleine's.

As the big day draws closer, Madeleine starts to question her commitment to Henry: Is he really the one she wants to spend the rest of her life with?

The Author

Dianne Blacklock has variously been a teacher, trainer and counsellor, while raising four sons and writing her novels. She has recently completed a reverse tree-change and moved from the beautiful Illawarra to Sydney's inner west, in a quest to discover her inner hipster. She knows it's in there somewhere. 'The Best Man' is her ninth novel.

Author Residence: Sydney

Second Deadly Sin, The

Larsson, Asa

Dawn breaks in a forest in northern Sweden. Villagers gather to dispatch a rampaging bear. When the beast is brought to ground they are horrified to find the remains of a human hand inside its stomach.

In nearby Kiruna a woman is found murdered in her bed, her body a patchwork of vicious wounds, the word WHORE scrawled across the wall. Her grandson Marcus, already an orphan, is nowhere to be seen.

Grasping for clues, Rebecka Martinsson begins to delve into the victim's tragic family history. But with doubts over her mental health still lingering, she is ousted from the case by an arrogant and ambitious young prosecutor.

Before long a chance lead draws Martinsson back into the thick of the action and her legendary courage is put to the test once more.

The Author

Åsa Larsson was born and grew up in Kiruna, Sweden. She is a qualified lawyer. 'The Savage Altar' was awarded the Swedish Crime Writers' Association prize for best debut. 'The Blood Spilt' was chosen as the Best Swedish Crime Novel of 2004.

Good as Gone

Corleone, Douglas

Former U.S. Marshal Simon Fisk works as a private contractor, tracking down and recovering children who are kidnapped by their estranged parents. He only has one rule: he won't touch stranger abduction cases. He's still haunted by the unresolved disappearance of his six-year-old daughter, and non-family kidnappings hit too close to home.

Until, that is, another six-year-old, Lindsay Sorkin, disappears from her parents' hotel room in Paris, and the French police deliver Simon an ultimatum: he can spend years in a French jail for past misdemeanors, or he can take the case and recover the missing girl. Simon sets out in pursuit of Lindsay and the truth behind her disappearance. But Lindsay's captors have not left an easy trail, and following it will take Simon across the continent, through the ritziest nightclubs and the seediest back alleys, into a terrifying world of international intrigue and dark corners of his past he'd rather leave well alone.

The Author

Douglas Corleone is a former New York City defence attorney and winner of the MB/MWA First Crime Novel Competition. He now lives in Kapolei, Hawaii with his wife and two children.

Author Residence: Hawaii U.S.A.

Selling Points

- Simon Fisk, haunted by his daughter's disappearance, investigates a child abduction which becomes an international hunt
- Lightning-fast abduction thriller that races through the streets of Europe in a style reminiscent of the Jason Bourne and 'Taken' films
- Douglas Corleone knows his stuff, having been a New York City defence attorney
- Our US colleagues at St Martins Press are investing in Corleone and this breakout novel after discovering him in a crime novel competition run in association with the Mystery Writers of America
- "'Good as Gone' goes from zero to 60 in under six seconds and never lets off the gas! If you like your thrillers filled with nonstop action in a race against time through Europe's underbelly, hop in and take a ride." - Andrew Gross
- "'Good as Gone' delivers a lightning-fast pace, surprising and heartfelt twists, and action aplenty."
- "'Good as Gone' is the can't-put-it-down thriller of the year that propels Douglas Corleone into Lee Child territory. Yeah, it's that good." - Jason Starr

Best Kept Secret: Clifton Chronicles 3

Archer, Jeffrey

1945. The vote in the House of Lords as to who should inherit the Barrington family fortune has ended in a tie. The Lord Chancellor's deciding vote will cast a long shadow on the lives of Harry Clifton and Giles Barrington.

Harry returns to America to promote his latest novel, while his beloved Emma goes in search of the little girl who was found abandoned in her father's office on the night he was killed. When the General Election is called, Giles Barrington has to defend his seat in the House of Commons and is horrified to discover who the Conservatives select to stand against him. But it is Sebastian Clifton, Harry and Emma's son, who ultimately influences his uncle's fate.

In 1957, Sebastian wins a scholarship to Cambridge, and a new generation of the Clifton family march onto the page. After Sebastian is expelled from school, he unwittingly becomes caught up in an international art fraud involving a Rodin statue that is worth far more than the sum it raises at auction. Does he become a millionaire? Does he go to Cambridge? Is his life in danger? 'Best Kept Secret' will answer all these questions, but once again, pose so many more.

The Author

Jeffrey Archer, whose novels and short stories include 'Kane and Abel', 'A Prisoner of Birth' and 'Cat O' Nine Tales', has topped the bestseller lists around the world, with sales of over 270 million copies. He is the only author ever to have been a number one bestseller in fiction (sixteen times), short stories (four times) and non-fiction ('The Prison Diaries'). The author is married with two sons and lives in London and Cambridge.

Total War Rome: Destroy Carthage

Gibbins, David

Carthage, 146 BC. This is the story of Fabius Petronius Secundus - Roman legionary and centurion - and his rise to power: from his first battle against the Macedonians, that seals the fate of Alexander the Great's Empire, to total war in North Africa and the Siege of Carthage.

Fabius' success brings him admiration and respect, but also attracts greed and jealousy - the closest allies can become the bitterest of enemies. And then there is Julia, of the Caesar family - a dark horse in love with both Fabius and his rival Paullus - who causes a vicious feud. Ultimately for Fabius, it will come down to one question: how much is he prepared to sacrifice for his vision of Rome?

Based on Total War: Rome II, the bestselling game, 'Destroy Carthage' is the first in an epic series of novels. It is not only the tale of one man's fate, but is also a journey to the core of Roman times, through the world of extraordinary military tactics and political intrigue that Rome's warriors and citizens used to cheat death.

The Author

David Gibbins is the author of seven previous historical adventure novels, including the international bestseller, 'Atlantis'. After holding a Research Fellowship at Cambridge, he spent almost a decade teaching archaeology, ancient history and art history as a university lecturer in England, before giving up teaching to write fiction full-time. He is a passionate diver and has led numerous expeditions, some of which resulted in extraordinary discoveries of ten-thousand-year-old artefacts. David divides his time between England and Canada, where he does most of his writing.

Kinslayer

Kristoff, Jay

A SHATTERED EMPIRE

Shōgun Yoritomo has been assassinated by the Stormdancer Yukiko, and the threat of civil war looms over the Shima Imperium. The Lotus Guild conspires to renew the nation's broken dynasty and crush the growing rebellion by endorsing a new Shōgun who desires nothing more than to see Yukiko dead.

A DARK LEGACY

Yukiko and the mighty thunder tiger Buruu have been cast in the role of heroes by the Kagé rebellion. But Yukiko herself is blinded by rage over her father's death, and her ability to hear the thoughts of beasts. Along with Buruu, Yukiko's anchor is Kin, the rebel Guildsman who helped her escape from Yoritomo's clutches.

A GATHERING STORM

Kagé assassins lurk within the Shōgun's palace, plotting to end the new dynasty before it begins. A new enemy gathers its strength, readying to push the fracturing Shima imperium into a war it cannot hope to survive. And across raging oceans, Yukiko and Buruu will face foes no katana or talon can defeat. The ghosts of a blood-stained past.

The Author

Jay Kristoff grew up in the most isolated capital city on earth and fled at his earliest convenience. He worked "creative advertising" for eleven years and has won several awards that nobody outside the advertising industry gives a tinker's cuss about. He is 6'7, has approximately 13870 days to live, and can demand whiskey in almost a dozen European languages. He lives in Melbourne with his wife and the world's laziest Jack Russell. Kinslayer is the second novel in his "The Lotus Wars" series, continuing from 'Stormdancer'.

Selling Points

- The second novel in the Lotus Wars series from Melbourne-based author Jay Kristoff, following on from 'Stormdancer' - continues the heart-racing adventure of a young girl fighting against a ruthless regime to save her family and her country
- Combines the best parts of fantasy with a wonderfully imagined fictional world and a fast-paced heart-racing adventure in feudal Japan
- 'Stormdancer' was a bestseller in the fantasy genre last year

Letter to George Clooney

Adelaide, Debra

Debra Adelaide's new collection of short stories intricately maps both the sublime and the mundane landscape of ordinary lives, with her trademark dark wit and luminous intelligence.

In 'Glory in the Flower', distinguished but disillusioned British poet, Bill, crosses the world on the promise of a prestigious literary festival only to find himself roughing it with an unlikely group of amateur poets, with surprising results. One man's attempt to negotiate the Australian taxation system reads like a noir thriller in 'The Pirate Map', and the minefield of internet dating in 'Chance' artfully balances the absurd and dark side of the human psyche. 'Harder Than Your Husband' follows a serious-minded administrator as he attempts to navigate the induction of a new, and rather perplexing, employee. And the final eclipsing story, 'Letter to George Clooney', opens a door into a world of terror and deprivation: searing in its devastating restraint, it demonstrates why Adelaide is one of the finest Australian writers of her generation.

The Author

Debra Adelaide has worked as a university lecturer and researcher, and is now a writer, freelance editor, and occasional book reviewer. She is the author of the bestselling parenting anthologies 'Motherlove' (1996), 'Motherlove II' (1997) and 'Cutting The Cord' (1998); the novels 'Serpent Dust' (1998) and 'The Household Guide to Dying' (2008); and the short story anthology, 'Acts of Dog' (2003). She has been a regular panellist at literary festivals and judge of literary awards, including the Miles Franklin Award, the Vogel Award, the Patrick White Award and the Nita B Kibble Award for Women Writers.

Golden Land, The

Morrissey, Di

Natalie is a young Gold Coast mother with a loving husband, two small children and a happy lifestyle. While helping her mother move house, she finds a little box containing a Burmese artefact. When Natalie learns its unique history through a letter left by her great-great uncle, it ignites an interest in its country of origin and her uncle's unfulfilled plans for this curio.

Her investigations collide with her own dramatically changing circumstances and create a catalyst for a moral dilemma that challenges the core of her marriage as she finds herself immersed in two very different golden lands.

The Author

Di Morrissey is one of Australia's most successful writers. She began writing as a young woman, working as a journalist for Australian Consolidated Press in Sydney and Northcliffe Newspapers in London. She has worked in television in Australia and in the USA as a presenter, reporter, producer and actress. After her marriage to a US diplomat, Peter Morrissey, she lived in Singapore, Japan, Thailand, South America and Washington. Returning to Australia, Di published her first novel in 1991. Di and her partner, Boris Janjic, live in the Manning Valley in New South Wales when not travelling to research her novels, which are all inspired by a particular landscape.

Flame of Sevenwaters: The Sevenwaters Series 6

Marillier, Juliet

When Maeve, fourth daughter of Lord Sean of Sevenwaters, is asked to accompany a skittish horse back to her father's keep, she agrees - reluctantly.

For it has been many years since she left the place where her hands were crippled by a fire - years in which she has nurtured her special talent with animals.

Sevenwaters is also much changed. It is now enslaved by the fey prince Mac Dara, a force of malignant magic who is responsible for a party of travellers disappearing. When Maeve discovers the body of one of the missing men, she and her brother Finbar are lured to the Otherworld on a journey that may save Sevenwaters... or lead to catastrophe.

If Maeve is ever to dream of a future, she must confront the darkness of her past.

The Author

Juliet Marillier was born in Dunedin, New Zealand, a town with strong Scottish roots. She graduated from Otago University with degrees in arts and music, and has had a varied career which included teaching and performing music as well as working in government agencies. Juliet now lives in a hundred-year-old cottage near the river in Perth, Western Australia, where she writes full-time. She is a member of the druid order OBOD. Juliet shares her home with three dogs and a cat. www.julietmarillier.com

Cry of the Curlew

Watt, Peter

Confronting, graphic and erotic, 'Cry of the Curlew' is a riveting novel of Australia's brutal past from master storyteller Peter Watt. It is the tale of two families, the Macintoshes and the Duffys, who are locked in a deadly battle from the moment squatter Donald Macintosh commits an act of barbarity on his Queensland property. Their paths cross in love, death and revenge as both families fight to tame the wild frontier of Australia's north country.

'Cry of the Curlew' is the first bestselling novel in the compelling Duffy and Macintosh series depicting our turbulent history as never before.

The Author

Peter Watt has spent time as a soldier, articled clerk, prawn trawler deckhand, builder's labourer, pipe layer, real estate salesman, private investigator, police sergeant and advisor to the Royal Papua New Guinea Constabulary. He speaks, reads and writes Vietnamese and Pidgin. He now lives at Maclean, on the Clarence River in northern New South Wales. He is a volunteer firefighter with the Rural Fire service, and fishing the vast open spaces of outback Queensland are his main interests in life.

Shadow of the Osprey

Watt, Peter

On a Yankee clipper bound for Sydney Harbour the mysterious Michael O'Flynn is watched closely by a man working undercover for Her Majesty's government. O'Flynn has a dangerous mission to undertake... and old scores to settle.

Twelve years have passed since the murderous event which inextricably linked the destinies of two families, the Macintoshes and the Duffys. The curse which lingers after the violent 1862 dispersal of the Nerambura tribe has created passions which divide them in hate and join them in forbidden love.

'Shadow of the Osprey', the sequel to the bestselling 'Cry of the Curlew', is a riveting tale which reaches from the boardrooms and backstreets of Sydney to beyond the rugged Queensland frontier and the dangerous waters of the Coral Sea. Powerful and brilliantly told, 'Shadow of the Osprey' confirms the exceptional talent of master storyteller Peter Watt.

Flight of the Eagle

Watt, Peter

No-one is left untouched by the dreadful curse which haunts two families, inextricably linking them together in love, death and revenge.

Captain Patrick Duffy is a man divided between the family of his father, Irish Catholic soldier of fortune Michael Duffy and his adoring, scheming maternal grandmother, Enid Macintosh. Visiting the village of his Irish ancestors on a quest to uncover the secrets surrounding his birth, he is beguiled by the beautiful, mysterious Catherine Fitzgerald.

On the rugged Queensland frontier Native Mounted Police trooper Peter Duffy is torn between his duty, the blood of his mother's people - the Nerambura tribe - and a predestined deadly duel with Gordon James, the love of his sister Sarah.

From the battlefields of the Sudan, to colonial Sydney and the Queensland outback, 'Flight of the Eagle' is the stunning third novel to the bestselling "Duffy and Macintosh" series, with master storyteller Peter Watt at the height of his powers.

Sunne in Splendour, The

Penman, Sharon

Richard, last-born son of the Duke of York, was seven months short of his nineteenth birthday when he bloodied himself at the battles of Barnet and Tewkesbury, earning his legendary reputation as a battle commander and ending the Lancastrian line of succession.

But Richard was far more than a warrior schooled in combat. He was also a devoted brother, an ardent suitor, a patron of the arts, an indulgent father, a generous friend. Above all, he was a man of fierce loyalties, great courage and firm principles, who was ill at ease among the intrigues of Edward's court. The very codes Richard lived by ultimately betrayed him.

But he was betrayed by history too. Leaving no heir, his reputation was at the mercy of his successor, and Henry Tudor had too much at stake to risk mercy. Thus was born the myth of the man who would stop at nothing to gain the throne.

Filled with the sights and sounds of battle, the customs and love of daily life, the rigours and dangers of Court politics and the touching concerns of very real men and women, 'The Sunne in Splendour' is a richly coloured tapestry of medieval England.

The Author

Sharon Kay Penman is the author of seven other historical novels and four medieval mysteries set during the reign of Eleanor of Aquitaine. She lives in Mays Landing, New Jersey, and her most recent book is 'Lionheart', beginning the story of Richard I and the Crusades.

Almost English

Mendelson, Charlotte

Home is a foreign country: they do things differently there.

In a tiny flat in West London, sixteen-year-old Marina lives with her emotionally delicate mother, Laura, and three ancient Hungarian relatives. Imprisoned by her family's crushing expectations and their fierce unEnglish pride, by their strange traditions and stranger foods, she knows she must escape. But the place she runs to makes her feel even more of an outsider.

At Combe Abbey, a traditional English public school for which her family have sacrificed everything, she realises she has made a terrible mistake. She is the awkward half-foreign girl who doesn't know how to fit in, flirt or even be. And as a semi-Hungarian Londoner, who is she? In the meantime, her mother Laura, an alien in this strange universe, has her own painful secrets to deal with, especially the return of the last man she'd expect back in her life. She isn't noticing that, at Combe Abbey, things are starting to go terribly wrong.

The Author

Charlotte Mendelson's last novel, 'When We Were Bad', was shortlisted for the Orange Prize for Fiction, and was chosen as a book of the year in the "Observer", "Guardian", "Sunday Times", "New Statesman" and "Spectator". She is also the author of 'Love in Idleness' and 'Daughters of Jerusalem', which won both the Somerset Maugham Award and the John Llewellyn Rhys Prize. 'Almost English' is her fourth novel. Charlotte was born in 1972 and grew up in Oxford. She lives in London. www.charlottemendelson.com

DAVID THOMAS

Ostland

SURROUNDED BY EVIL, HOW LONG CAN ONE MAN'S GOOD INTENTIONS LAST?

Ostland

Thomas, David

February 1941, wartime Berlin. Brilliant, idealistic young detective Georg Heuser joins the Murder Squad in the midst of the biggest manhunt the city has ever seen.

July 1959, peacetime West Germany: Paula Siebert is the sole woman in a federal unit investigating men who have committed crimes of unimaginable magnitude and horror. Their leader has just been arrested. His name is Georg Heuser. Siebert is sure of his guilt. But one question haunts her: how could a once decent man have become a sadistic monster? The answer lies in the desolate wastes of the Russian Front, the vast landmass conquered by Hitler's forces... the new empire the Nazis call Ostland.

Dominion

Sansom, C. J.

The Great Smog. London. A dense, choking fog engulfs the city and beneath it, history is re-written...

1952. Twelve years have passed since Churchill lost to the appeasers and Britain surrendered to Nazi Germany after Dunkirk. As the long German war against Russia rages on in the east, the British people find themselves under dark authoritarian rule: the press, radio and television are controlled; the streets patrolled by violent auxiliary police and British Jews face ever greater constraints. There are terrible rumours too about what is happening in the basement of the German Embassy at Senate House. Defiance, though, is growing. In Britain, Winston Churchill's Resistance organization is increasingly a thorn in the government's side. And in a Birmingham mental hospital an incarcerated scientist, Frank Muncaster, may hold a secret that could change the balance of the world struggle for ever.

Civil Servant David Fitzgerald, secretly acting as a spy for the Resistance, is given the mission by them to rescue his old friend Frank and get him out of the country. Before long he, together with a disparate group of Resistance activists, will find themselves fugitives in the midst of London's Great Smog; as David's wife Sarah finds herself drawn into a world more terrifying than she ever could have imagined. And hard on their heels is Gestapo Sturmbannfuhrer Gunther Hoth, brilliant, implacable hunter of men...

The Author

C. J. Sansom was educated at Birmingham University, where he took a BA and then a Ph.D. in history. After working in a variety of jobs, he retrained as a solicitor and practised in Sussex, until becoming a full-time writer. He is the bestselling author of the acclaimed "Shardlake" series, and the Spanish Civil War thriller Winter in Madrid. He lives in Sussex.

Selling Points

- At once a vivid, haunting reimagining of 1950s Britain, a gripping, humane spy thriller and a poignant love story, with 'Dominion' C. J. Sansom once again asserts himself as the master of the historical novel

Halo: Thursday War, The

Traviss, Karen

This is a life-or-death mission for ONI's black-ops team, Kilo-Five, which is tasked with preventing the ruthless Elites, once the military leaders of the Covenant, from regrouping and threatening humankind again. What began as a routine dirty-tricks operation - keeping the Elites busy with their own insurrection - turns into a desperate bid to extract one member of Kilo-Five from the seething heart of an alien civil war.

But troubles never come singly for Kilo-Five. Colonial terrorism is once again surfacing on one of the worlds that survived the war against the Covenant, and the man behind it is much more than just a name to Spartan-010. Meanwhile, the treasure trove of Forerunner technology recovered from the shield world of Onyx is being put to work. And a kidnapped Elite plots vengeance on the humans he fears will bring his people to the brink of destruction.

The Author

Karen Traviss is the no.1 "New York Times" bestselling author of 'Halo: Glasslands', 'Star Wars: Republic Commando' novels; three 'Star Wars: Legacy of the Force' novels; and the bestselling 'Gears of War' novels. How to Be a Good Wife

Chapman, Emma

"I know what my husband would say: that I have too much time on my hands; that I need to keep myself busy. That I need to take my medication. Empty nest syndrome, he tells his friends at the pub, his mother. He's always said I have a vivid imagination."

Marta and Hector have been married for a long time - so long that she finds it difficult to remember her life before him. He has always taken care of her, and she has always done everything she can to be a good wife.

But when Hector comes home with a secret, their ordered domestic life begins to unravel. In the shadows there is a blonde girl that only Marta can see. And she is trying to tell her something...

The Author

Emma Chapman was born in 1985 and grew up in Manchester. She studied English Literature at Edinburgh University, followed by a Masters in Creative Writing at Royal Holloway, University of London. After university, she travelled in Scandinavia, and she currently lives in Perth, Western Australia.

Dare Me

Abbott, Megan

From the bestselling author of 'The End of Everything', a searing new novel about the dark heart of adolescence.

"Beth and me wedged tight, jeaned legs pressed against each other. The sound of our own breathing. Before we all stopped believing a tornado, or anything, could touch us, ever."

Addy Hanlon and Beth Cassidy are tough, inseparable, invincible. No pair more charismatic or sophisticated. No pair more dangerous.

The Author

Megan Abbott is an award-winning author of noir fiction including 'Queenpin' and 'Bury Me Deep' (nominated for the 2010 Edgar Award and the Los Angeles Times Book Prize). Her most recent novel, 'The End of Everything', was a 2011 Richard and Judy selection. Born in the Detroit area, she now lives in Queens, New York City.

Last Alibi, The

Ellis, David

Jason Kolarich, defense lawyer has a new client. James Drinker walks into his office, terrified he's being framed: two women have recently been murdered, seemingly by the same killer. One woman was his ex-girlfriend and the other, a friend. He has no alibi for the night of either murder.

Something about Drinker seems off from the start, but Kolarich doesn't give it too much thought. Until another murder occurs. And then another. As he begins to probe his client's life and story more closely, it quickly becomes clear that nothing about James Drinker is what it seems... and that the target of the frame isn't Drinker, but Kolarich.

Unable to stop a serial killer - and prove his own innocence - without breaking his attorney-client privilege, Jason Kolarich must hunt for the truth about James Drinker, the series of brutal murders, and why he's been set up. The answers will be beyond anything he could have imagined.

The Author

David Ellis' previous novels include 'Line of Vision' (winner of the Edgar Award for Best First Novel) and 'The Hidden Man'. An attorney from Chicago, he currently serves as Chief Counsel to the Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives. He lives in Illinois.

War Master's Gate

Tchaikovsky, Adrian

Relentlessly advancing towards Collegium, the Empire is again seeking to break down its walls. The mighty imperial armies have learnt from their failures, and Empress Seda will brook no weakness in her soldiers. However, Stenwold Maker has earned his title, and the War Master has strategies to save his city. His aviators rule the skies - but the Wasp Kinden Empire has developed a terrifying new aerial weapon.

Yet the campaign may be decided far from marching armies and the noise of battle. In an ancient forest, where Mantis clans pursue their own civil war, the Empress Seda is seeking lost magic. Some dangerous shadow of old night is locked up among these trees and she wants its power. Cheerwell Maker must stop her, at any cost, but will their rivalry awaken something far deadlier? Something that could make even their clash of nations pale into insignificance...

Detainee, The Liney, Peter

When the fog comes down and the drums start to beat, the inhabitants of the island tremble: for the punishment satellites - which keep the tyrannical Wastelords at bay - are blind in the darkness, and the islanders become prey.

The inhabitants are the old, the sick, the poor: the detritus of Society, dumped on the island with the rest of Society's waste. There is no point trying to escape, for the satellites - the invisible eyes of the law - mete out instant judgement from the sky.

The island is the end of all hope - until 'Big Guy' Clancy finds a blind woman living in a secret underground warren, and discovers a reason to fight.

The Author

By My Side

Peterson, Alice

One step can change everything

Cass Brooks loves her job, her boyfriend Sean, her life. Until, leaving home one morning, distracted and hungover, she steps into the path of a truck. When she wakes up, she can't walk. And suddenly all her hopes and dreams, the plans she'd made with Sean, the future she thought she'd have, seem out of her reach.

But then fate intervenes again. Cass meets Ticket, a loyal golden Labrador who refuses to leave her side. And on a flight to Colorado, she sits next to Charlie, who believes he can show her a life full of possibilities, if only she'll let him. Cass wants her life back the way it was. Charlie knows this cannot be. Yet a future beckons all the same...

Sleep Room, The

Tallis, F. R.

When promising psychiatrist, James Richardson, is offered the job opportunity of a lifetime, he is thrilled. Setting off to take up his post at Wyldehope Hall in deepest Suffolk, Richardson doesn't look back.

One of his tasks is to manage a controversial project - a pioneering therapy in which extremely disturbed patients are kept asleep for months. As Richardson settles into his new life, he begins to sense something uncanny about the sleeping patients - six women, forsaken by society. Why is the trainee nurse so on edge when she spends nights alone with them? And what can it mean when all the sleepers start dreaming at the same time?

It's not long before Richardson finds himself questioning everything he knows about the human mind as he attempts to uncover the shocking secrets of The Sleep Room . .

The Author

F.R.Tallis is a writer and clinical psychologist. He has written self-help manuals, non-fiction for the general reader, academic text books, over thirty academic papers in international journals and several novels. Between 1999 and 2012 he has received or been shortlisted for numerous awards, including the New London Writers' Award, the Ellis Peters Historical Dagger, the Elle Prix de Letrice, and two Edgars. His critically acclaimed "Liebermann" series (written as Frank Tallis) has been translated into fourteen languages and optioned for TV adaptation. 'The Forbidden', his ninth novel, is a horror story set in nineteenth-century Paris and this, 'The Sleep Room', is his tenth.

Twist of Fate, A

Rees, Joanna

Romy and Thea, two beautiful baby girls, their futures sealed with the flip of a coin.

One will enter a life of privilege, surrounded by only the best money can buy. The other will fight for survival in an orphanage, against an evil regime who seek only to exploit her.

Throughout the years their paths will cross, neither knowing who the other one is, their lives overflowing with secrets, blackmail and murder.

From the snow covered forests of Eastern Europe to the glistening white beaches of the Caribbean. From the gutters of London's Soho to the towering skyscrapers of New York, a twist of fate tore them apart, only their strength and determination can reunite them...

The Author

Jo Rees grew up in Chelmsford before getting an English and Drama degree at Goldsmiths' College. After several bizarre jobs, including running her own sandwich delivery business and writing promotions for the back of Sugar Puffs boxes, 'It Could Be You', was published in 1997 under her maiden name, Josie Lloyd, and enabled her to meet fellow novelist, Emlyn Rees. Together they wrote 'Come Together' which became a number one "Sunday Times" bestseller and was translated into 26 languages. They went on to co-write six more successful novels, and along the way got married and had three kids. In 2007 Jo went solo and wrote 'Platinum', followed by 'Forbidden Pleasures' in 2010.

Confusion of Karen Carpenter, The Harvey, Jonathan

"Having the same name as a 70s pop star was just the start of her troubles..."

Hello. There are two things you should know about me:

- 1) My name is Karen Carpenter.
- 2) Just before Christmas my boyfriend left me.

I'm not THE Karen Carpenter. I just have the most embarrassing name in Christendom. Particularly as I'm no skinny minny and don't play the drums.

I can't even sing. I'm tone deaf. I work in a school in the East End. (Where I came third in a 'Teacher we'd most like to sleep with' competition amongst the Year 11 boys)

My Mum's driving me mad. She's come to stay and is obsessed with Scandi crime shows and Zumba.

Oh yeah. The boyfriend. After eleven 'happy' years he left me. No explanation just a post it on the kettle when I got in from work. I think I'm handling it really well. I don't think I'm confused at all. What was my name again?

The Author

Jonathan Harvey comes from Liverpool and is the multi award winning writer of the play and film 'Beautiful Thing', the Bafta nominated sitcom 'Gimme Gimme Gimme' and 'Beautiful People' (Best Comedy: Banff TV Festival). He is currently on the writing teams for both "Coronation Street" and "Shameless". His other TV work includes "Rev" (Bafta, Best Sitcom), "At Home With The Braithwaites", "Lilies", "The Catherine Tate Show" and "Murder Most Horrid". He has written 20 stage plays including "Corrie!", "Canary", "Hushabye Mountain", "Babies", "Boom Bang A Bang" and "Rupert Street Lonely Hearts Club".

Wonder Women

Fiore, Rosie

Jo has always dreamed of starting her own business, but the arrival of her two gorgeous toddlers has put her ambition on the backburner. Then she hits on a brilliant idea - a kids' clothing shop with a twist - and is thrilled when it really takes off. When husband Lee offers to quit his job to look after the family while her business grows, it seems a godsend - but will their marriage stand the test of reversing their roles?

Jo soon recruits Holly and Mel to help her in the shop. Designer Holly's highflying career has come crashing down and she's moved back home - but is she ready to manage a major family crisis? Meanwhile, Mel worries her teenage daughter Serena is going off the rails. Is finding out more worth risking her daughter's trust?

At the crossroads of their lives, friendship could be the only the thing keeping these wonder women strong.

The Author

Rosie Fiore was born and raised in Johannesburg, South Africa, and has worked as a writer for theatre, television, magazines, advertising, comedy and the corporate market. Her first novel, 'This Year's Black', was longlisted for the South African Sunday Times Literary Award. She lives in North London with her husband and two children.

Things Men Do, The Raicu, Stefan

Cornel Toma, a super-hunk Romanian national, is strutting his stuff on a temporary working visa in sunny Australia. An incurable womaniser, he's sleeping with his boss, he's toying with a young Czech beauty who's mad about him and he has no qualms in taking other 'dames' to bed whenever the opportunity presents itself. Sunny indeed - until, that is, he receives a mysterious text message enticing him to meet a woman called Kate. He takes the bait. Kate is gorgeous and smart and after a few bottles of wine, she's in bed with him too.

24 hours later, Toma's life is in tatters. Kate has vanished, feared kidnapped, and the police are after him. With his Australian visa coincidentally expiring just when he meets Kate, Toma runs. The last thing he wants is deportation to Romania. But that could be the least of his worries.

On the run he teams up with an old Romanian friend. All good, except that the friend has a drop-dead gorgeous wife: Remy. But Remy is not what she seems...

The Author

Stefan Raicu was born and educated in communist Romania. As a teenager and young adult, he experienced the hardship of life behind the Iron Curtain. He completed an Economics Honours degree in 1978 and then, together with his wife and young son, migrated to Australia in 1983. Flight of the Swans, The Bai, D. Devika

'The Flight of the Swans' is a rich and fascinating family saga set in British India and Malaya. Cursed, and with blood on his hands, Captain Ramdas Rao Bhonslé is forced to flee Killa Fort, which has fallen to the British. A strange flight of swans signals his flight from Killa; a flight that will drive Ramdas and his family into further adversity. But great adversity spawns great dreams. Ramdas dreams of ousting the British from his motherland. His sons, the handsome and irascible Nilkanth and the plain and romantic Madhav dream of possessing the same girl, Tara Bai, who is the most beautiful courtesan in the land. And Ramdas' granddaughter, blind Arundhati, dreams only of seeing one day. Woven into this tapestry is a lone white swan inextricably linked to the ebb and flow of the Bhonsles' fortunes as they flee across India to Malaya.

In the new land, they find solace in Penang Island's embrace. They make history as they pioneer the birth of the Federated Malay States Railways; they wallow in the scent of spices and wonder at the rich blend of migrants and cultures on the island, and they bask in the warmth of its natives until Fate drags them back to India where it deals them its final blow.

At once magical, poignant and exotic, Devika Bai's debut novel mesmerises as it unravels the love, loyalty and courage of the Bhonsles. The saga unfolds against the backdrop of war, famine, family conflict and social injustice, and hurtles towards its inevitable end in a masterful blend of history and fiction.

The Author

D. Devika Bai (KL, Malaysia) is a retired school administrator and the great-granddaughter of one of the earliest Tanjore Maratha immigrants to British Malaya.

Rogue Raider

Barley, Nigel

It is the First World War and the Flashmanesque German naval reserve captain, Julius Lauterbach, is a prisoner of war in Singapore. He is also a braggart, a womaniser and a heavy drinker and through his bored fantasies he unwittingly triggers a mutiny by Muslim troops of the British garrison and so throws the whole course of the war in doubt. The British lose control of the city, its European inhabitants flee to the ships in the harbour and it is only with the help of Japanese marines that the Empire is saved.

'Rogue Raider' is the adventure story of how one ship, the Emden, ties up the navies of four nations only to be sunk at The Battle of Cocos by the Royal Australian Navy light cruiser HMAS Sydney, and how one man eludes Allied Forces in a desperate chase across Asia to America as he attempts to regain his native land.

It is fictionalised history but a true history that was deliberately suppressed by the British authorities of the time as too embarrassing and dangerous to be known. Revealed here, it brings vividly to life the Southeast Asia of the period, its sights, its sounds and its rich mix of peoples. And through it an unwilling participant in the war becomes an accidental hero.

The Author

Nigel Barley is a former curator at The British Museum and is the author of twenty books with Penguin, Time Warner, Monsoon and Little, Brown.

Soho 4 A. M.

Casey, Nuala

6 July 2005. Great Britain has just been announced as the next host of the Olympics. The euphoric crowds pour forth from Trafalgar Square into the waiting bars and restaurants of Soho.

Dreams, drugs, debauchery... Soho is London's red light district, where any desire can be satisfied in the blink of an eye. But behind it all there is a permanent community of residents whose own sins are concealed by the partying and excess. Zoe, an aspiring model looking for her big break, will discover the sinister world behind the bright lights; artist Seb is hoping he can forget the past by drinking himself into oblivion, while his friend Ade is about to take extreme measures to save his livelihood and relationship. Meanwhile, Stella, Ade's girlfriend, wonders if this is the night to escape.

Through the dark streets, these four ordinary people walk a dangerous, twisted path through London's greatest adult playground. Come the morning of 7 July, as jubilation turns to horror, will they have fallen into Soho's poisoned embrace while the nation's eyes are turned elsewhere?

The Author

Nuala Casey graduated from Durham University in 2001 and moved to London to pursue a career as a singer-songwriter. However, her experiences living in Soho where she chronicled the comings and goings of the people around her, took her life in a different direction. She went on to work as a copywriter and was awarded an MA in Creative Writing. Soho and the urban landscape of London continue to provide inspiration for her writing. 'Soho, 4 A. M.' is Nuala's first novel.

Mad Scientist's Guide to World Domination, The Adams, John Joseph (ed)

From Victor Frankenstein to Lex Luthor, from Dr. Moreau to Dr. Doom, readers have long been fascinated by insane plans for world domination and the madmen who devise them. Typically, we see these villains through the eyes of good guys. This anthology, however, explores the world of mad scientists and evil geniuses - from their own wonderfully twisted point of view.

An all-star roster of bestselling authors - including Diana Gabaldon, Daniel Wilson, Austin Grossman, Naomi Novik, and Seanan McGuire... twenty-two great storytellers all told - have produced a fabulous assortment of stories guaranteed to provide readers with hour after hour of high-octane entertainment born of the most megalomaniacal mayhem imaginable.

Everybody loves villains. They're bad; they always stir the pot; they're much more fun than the good guys, even if we want to see the good guys win. Their fiendish schemes, maniacal laughter, and limitless ambition are legendary, but what lies behind those crazy eyes and wicked grins? How-and why-do they commit these nefarious deeds? And why are they so set on taking over the world?

If you've ever asked yourself any of these questions, you're in luck: It's finally time for the madmen's side of the story.

The Author

John Joseph Adams, called "the reigning king of the anthology world" by Barnes & Noble, is the bestselling editor of many anthologies. He is a four-time finalist for the Hugo Award and the World Fantasy Award. He is also the editor and publisher of "Lightspeed" and "Nightmare", and is the co-host of Wired.com's 'The Geek's Guide to the Galaxy' podcast. Find him online at johnjosephadams.com and on Twitter @JohnJosephAdams.

Selling Points

- "Veteran anthology editor Adams succeeds again with these frequently lighthearted tales of villains and mad scientists trying to take over the world and get the better of the more appreciated good guys. [...] Adams's entertaining story introductions set the stage for villains to find their own definitions and identities." - Publishers Weekly

- "A no-holds-barred collection. ... Brilliant ... insightful ... demonstrate[s] the seductive power of the 'bad guy.' [...] In addition to the overall excellence of the stories, fans of superhero fiction should enjoy the variety of interpretations of the terms 'mad scientist,' 'super villain,' and 'evil genius.'" - Library Journal, starred review

- "By turns hilarious, heartbreaking and wonderfully wacky, this anthology is a genuine triumph. ... Every single one of these tales ... is nothing short of stellar. This isn't just a 'must-buy,' it's a 'must buy for every sci-fi fan you know.'" - Romantic Times, named a "Top Pick" of the month

- "A collection of utterly fantastic shorts... It is a rare event when one can say they equally enjoyed each short as much as each other, in an anthology. Generally there are one or two that don't quite capture the reader's interest, yet with this anthology each was a winner. ... Easily my favorite anthology I have ever read." - Shades of Sentience

- "Breathtakingly rich... Superior writing, fantastic storytelling, and creative adherence to the theme will keep readers enthralled."

Demi-Monde, The: Summer

Rees, Rod

Eight-thousand years ago the Deluge destroyed the empire of the Lilithi, setting the race of super-warriors known as the Grigori loose in the outside world. They have lain hidden until now when - thanks to the creation of the dystopian virtual reality that is the Demi-Monde - they at last stand ready to achieve mastery of the Real World - and to cull HumanKind in the Final Solution.

Three girls stand between them and victory: Norma Williams, trapped in the nightmare that is the Coven, the viciously misandric Sector of the Demi-Monde; Ella Thomas, enslaved by the spirit of Lilith-come-again; and Trixie Dashwood, consumed by her hatred for Heydrich and his evil ForthRight.

The Author

Rod Rees has spent his life travelling. He has built pharmaceutical factories in Dhaka, set up a satellite communications network in Moscow, and conceived and designed a jazz-themed hotel in Scarborough. 'The Demi-Monde: Summer' is the third in the Demi-Monde quartet. He lives near Derby, England.

False Impression

Archer, Jeffrey

When an aristocratic old lady is brutally murdered in her country home the night before 9/11, it takes all the resources of the FBI and Interpol to work out the connection between her and the possible motive for her death - a priceless Van Gogh painting. It's a young woman in the North Tower when the first plane crashed into the building who has the courage and determination to take on both sides of the law and avenge the old lady's death.

Anna Petrescu is missing, presumed dead, after 9/11 and she uses her new status to escape from America, only to be pursued across the world from Toronto to London, to Hong Kong, Tokyo and Bucharest, but it is only when she returns to New York that the mystery unfolds.

Why are so many people willing to risk their own lives and others' to own the Van Gogh Self-Portrait with Bandaged Ear?

The Author

Jeffrey Archer, whose novels and short stories include 'Kane and Abel', 'A Prisoner of Birth' and 'Cat O' Nine Tales', has topped the bestseller lists around the world, with sales of over 270 million copies. He is the only author ever to have been a number one bestseller in fiction (seventeen times), short stories (four times) and non-fiction ('The Prison Diaries'). The author is married with two sons and lives in London and Cambridge.

Sea, The

Banville, John

When Max Morden returns to the seaside village where he once spent a childhood holiday, he is both escaping from a recent loss and confronting a distant trauma. Mr and Mrs Grace and their twin children Myles and Chloe appeared that long-ago summer as if from another world. Max grew to know them intricately, even intimately, and what ensued would haunt him for the rest of his years, shaping everything that was to follow.

The Author

John Banville was born in Wexford, Ireland, in 1945. He is the author of fifteen novels including 'The Sea', which won the 2005 Man Booker Prize. He has received a literary award from the Lannan Foundation. He lives in Dublin.

Selling Points

- Winner of the 2005 Man Booker Prize
- Perfect for book club discussions
- Throughout his career, Banville has been likened to great literary writers such as Albert Camus, Dostoyevski and Colm Toibin
- 'The Sea' combines the best of literary writing style with an unexpected and shocking plot twist. Banville is a wonderful storyteller

Praise for John Banville:

- "The devalued phrase "beautifully written" becomes hard currency in the fiction of John Banville. He is a master, and his prose gives continuous sensual delight" - Martin Amis
- "Banville is one of the great fictional stylists of our time" - Spectator

Daughters of Jerusalem, The

Mendelson, Charlotte

Behind a crumbling facade of seeming normality, secrets begin to stir within the Lux family home. Jean Lux, constrained academic wife and guilty mother, is waiting for excitement - and it will come from an unexpected source. Meanwhile Eve, her intelligent elder daughter, luxuriates in wounded jealousy, until her loathing for her only sister verges on the murderous.

Into this climate of static repression and bitterness enters Raymond Snow, the deadly rival of Jean's husband, who begins to show interest in the vulnerable Eve. Meanwhile, Jean's best friend, Helena, has something she is yearning to tell: a confession that may alter everyone's life forever.

Beautifully written and very funny, 'Daughters of Jerusalem' is a gripping tale of hidden love and hate, of the desire to belong and the need for escape.

The Author

Charlotte Mendelson's last novel, 'When We Were Bad', was shortlisted for the Orange Prize for Fiction, and was chosen as a book of the year in the "Observer", "Guardian", "Sunday Times", "New Statesman" and "Spectator". She is also the author of 'Love in Idleness' and 'Daughters of Jerusalem', which won both the Somerset Maugham Award and the John Llewellyn Rhys Prize. 'Almost English' is her fourth novel. Charlotte was born in 1972 and grew up in Oxford. She lives in London.

Love in Idleness

Mendelson, Charlotte

A haunting debut about the pursuit of passion.

Anna Raine is desperate: to escape Somerset, to evade her mother, and above all, to find a model of adulthood on whom to base her future self. When Stella, her mother's thrillingly reckless and beautiful younger sister, offers her Bloomsbury flat, Anna feels sure that an idiosyncratic but stylish wardrobe, interesting friends, several handsome suitors and some form of stardom will shortly follow.

While by day Anna feigns efficient adulthood, by night she sinks deeper into an increasingly heated world of discovery. As secrets rise to the surface and her fantasies begin to flower, fed by a photograph of Stella and another woman at a party, Anna tries to focus on Richard, Stella's enigmatic, occasional lover. And meanwhile the date for Stella's brief return from Paris approaches...

The Author

Charlotte Mendelson lives in London. "Love in Idleness" is her first novel and she is currently writing her second, "Daughters of Jerusalem". She is a publisher and reviewer for the Scotsman and Independent and Guardian.

Gallipoli Air War

Dolan, Hugh

From the author of '36 Days' comes the dramatic and almost unknown account of the war fought high above the Gallipoli peninsula, as the fragile biplanes of the Royal Flying Corps and the sea planes of the Royal Navy battled both the elements and the Turkish Air Force (supplied and manned by their German allies).

Whether flying reconnaissance missions, acting as artillery observers for the guns of the Royal Navy or bombing Turkish targets, the men who manned these frail machines had a remarkable impact on the campaign that until now has never been properly brought to light.

Using meticulous research and the diaries and accounts of the combatants, this is a fascinating new front in the well-known Gallipoli story.

The Author

Hugh Dolan is the author '36 Days' and a former RAAF intelligence officer. After completing a masters degree in history at Oxford University, he enlisted in the British Army as a private. He served in Bosnia as a junior NCO and witnessed the importance of military intelligence in operation planning. He then commissioned and served as a Squadron Leader (Intelligence) in headquarters roles in Australia and overseas. He now lives in Melbourne and is busy raising three small boys.

Understanding Alzheimer's

Martins, Prof Ralph and Ragg, Mark

There are over 321,600 Australians living with dementia, with the most common type of dementia being Alzheimer's. Each week, there are 1,700 new cases of dementia in Australia; approximately one person every 6 minutes. This timely book is a practical and compassionate guide to understanding and living with a condition that affects one in four people over 85. The lead author is Professor Ralph Martins, AO, one of the country's most respected researchers. The book is aimed at those in the early stages of the disease, as well as the families, friends and professionals who take on the care of Alzheimer sufferers. There are chapters on diagnosis, research, prevention, treatment, legal issues, impact on loved ones and decision making to do with caring for patients. In addition to practical information and advice, each chapter contains a case study; these detailed accounts provide a personal and heartfelt perspective on the disease.

The Author

Professor Ralph Martins, Foundation Professor of Ageing and Alzheimer's, Edith Cowan University, Perth is a leading expert in Alzheimer's disease whose career has spanned more than 25 years and resulted in over 200 scientific publications.

Author Residence: TBC

Selling Points

- The book has a foreword by Ita Buttrose, national president of Alzheimer's Australia and this year's Australian of the Year
- Lead author Professor Ralph Martins appears regularly on commercial and ABC television, radio and in print. He is recognised as one of the country's most reliable and authoritative commentators on the disease
- There are numerous media opportunities for this book and we expect a significant response; there is a strong community understanding that this is a major and growing public health issue
- Martins' co-authors are similarly well-qualified in their related areas of expertise
- Over 321,000 suffer from this bewildering disease and millions of Australians are directly affected yet there is a dearth of reliable information. This book provides information on all aspects of the disease - it is accessible, reassuring, sensible advice based on the latest research
- The release month, September, coincides with World Alzheimer's Month

Marching Powder

Young, Rusty

A true story of friendship, cocaine and South America's strangest jail.

Rusty Young was backpacking in South America when he heard about Thomas McFadden, a convicted English drug trafficker who ran tours inside Bolivia's notorious San Pedro prison. Intrigued, the twenty-something Australian law graduate travelled to La Paz and joined one of Thomas' illegal tours. What followed took both men by surprise: they formed a strong and instant friendship and then became partners in an attempt to record Thomas' experiences in the jail. Rusty bribed the guards to allow him to stay and for the next three months he lived inside the prison, sharing a cell with Thomas and recording one of the strangest and most compelling prison stories of all time.

'Marching Powder' is a shocking, sometimes darkly comic account of the life in San Pedro. In this bizarre prison, inmates are expected to buy their cells from real estate agents. Others run shops and restaurants, and hundreds of women and children live with imprisoned family members. It is a place where corrupt politicians and drug lords live in luxury apartments while the poorest prisoners are subjected to squalor and deprivation.

'Marching Powder' is the story of one of the strangest places on earth, where horror is leavened by humour and where cruelty lives side by side with compassion.

The Author

Rusty Young grew up in Sydney, Australia. He studied Finance and Law at the University of New South Wales and currently lives in Colombia, where he teaches English.

Danubia

Winder, Simon

For centuries much of Europe was in the hands of the very peculiar Habsburg family. An unstable mixture of wizards, obsessives, melancholics, bores, musicians and warriors, they saw off - through luck, guile and sheer mulishness - any number of rivals, until finally packing up in 1918. From their principal lairs along the Danube they ruled most of Central Europe and Germany and interfered everywhere - indeed the history of Europe hardly makes sense without them.

Simon Winder's extremely funny new book plunges the reader into a maelstrom of alchemy, skeletons, jewels, bear-moats, unfortunate marriages and a guinea-pig village. 'Danubia' is full of music, piracy, religion and fighting. It is the history of a dynasty, but it is at least as much about the people they ruled, who spoke many different languages, lived in a vast range of landscapes, believed in many rival gods and often showed a marked ingratitude towards their oddball ruler in Vienna. Readers who discovered Simon Winder's genius for telling wonderful stories of middle Europe with 'Germania' will be delighted by the eccentric and fascinating stories of the Habsburgs and their world.

The Author

Simon Winder is the author of the highly praised 'The Man Who Saved Britain' and the "Sunday Times" top-ten bestseller 'Germania'. He works in publishing and lives in Wandsworth Town.

Hallucinations

Sacks, Oliver

Have you ever seen something that wasn't really there? Heard someone call your name in an empty house? Sensed someone following you and turned around to find nothing?

Hallucinations don't belong wholly to the insane. Much more commonly, they are linked to sensory deprivation, intoxication, illness, or injury. In some conditions, hallucinations can lead to religious epiphanies or even the feeling of leaving one's own body. Humans have always sought such life-changing visions, and for thousands of years have used hallucinogenic compounds to achieve them.

In this book, with his usual elegance, curiosity and compassion, Dr Sacks weaves together stories of his patients and of his own mind-altering experiences to illuminate what hallucinations tell us about the organization and structure of our brains, how they have influenced every culture's folklore and art, and why the potential for hallucination is present in us all, a vital part of the human condition.

The Author

Oliver Sacks is a physician and the author of many books, including 'The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat', 'Awakenings' (which inspired the Oscar-nominated film) and 'Musicophilia'. Born in London and educated at Oxford, he now lives in New York City, where he is Professor of Neurology and Psychiatry at Columbia University. He is the first, and only, Columbia University Artist, and is also a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians. In 2008, he was appointed Commander of the British Empire.

Selling Points

- Scientifically proven methods to boost fertility, expert advice on gaining the right amount of weight safely and 33 quick, healthy recipes. There have been recipe books for pregnancy in this market, but no single book that presents a complete plan for maintaining a healthy weight by an acknowledged expert
- We know pregnant women are willing to invest a considerable amount of money in products that support their health and the health of their unborn child
- Melanie is widely respected and well known for her work within the medical community, which means OBGYNs, midwives and GPs will recommend her book to patients. Melanie is also a practised media performer. The controversial and ground-breaking information in this book will attract a good deal of media attention on the book's release
- One look at the success of diet books over the past ten years tells you that women worry about weight. Women are more vulnerable to unhealthy weight gain during pregnancy than at any other time
- Weight gain in pregnancy is emerging as a major public health issue: twenty years ago, professionals worried about underweight babies; now their concerns are with overweight babies. Many experts regard excessive weight gain during pregnancy to be as damaging now as smoking and drinking once were

Blue Ducks, The

Robertson, Darren and LaBrooy, Mark

Darren Robertson and Mark LaBrooy are the faces of a new, grassroots approach to cooking – delicious food based on an ethos of community, sustainability and growing-it-local. Professional chefs, mad surfers, keen gardeners and foragers, Darren and Mark live by this philosophy in everything they do – when cooking in their café, Three Blue Ducks, and in their garden, which is home to a rambling vegetable patch and four very happy chickens.

In their first book, Mark and Darren share more than 80 of their most enticing recipes, using eggs direct from their 'Chook Mahal', honey from the bees on their roof, local meat and seafood, and loads of herbs and veggies grown in the garden. Enjoy mouth-watering Sticky Pork Ribs, Barbecued Calamari, Spiced Chicken in a Brown Paper Bag, Home-Toasted Muesli, Salted Caramel Banana Muffins ... and meltingly good Char-grilled Peaches with Vanilla & Rosemary Ice Cream.

This is a cookbook full of fresh ingredients and dishes bursting with flavour; a tribute to our breathtaking coastal landscape; and an inspiring reminder of the joys of connecting with the land, whether it be growing your own veggies, keeping chickens or making more ethical food choices. The Blue Ducks will have you cooking up the most delicious and seasonal delights, and looking at the food we eat in a completely new way.

The Author

Darren Robertson moved to Australia in 2001 to work with chef Tetsuya Wakuda, becoming head chef at Sydney's internationally acclaimed Tetsuya's. Darren was co-host of the television show "Love to Share", is the host of "Charcoal Kitchen" on Foxtel's LifeStyle Channel, and a judge on Channel 10's new series "Recipe to Riches". Mark LaBrooy completed his apprenticeship at Sydney's Tetsuya's, then spent the next seven years travelling, including two years as sous-chef at Josef, a fine dining restaurant in Zurich. Today, both Darren and Mark work at Three Blue Ducks – a Sydney institution, that evokes a sense of good, honest food and of strong community spirit.

Selling Points

- Beautiful large format with real denim quarter-binding down the spine. The food in the book is fresh, delicious everyday stuff!
- All the topics in the book are very much of the Zeitgeist ... Everyone wants to grow their own food - also the consideration about ethical food choices. It's not about buying all your ingredients at hard-core organic food markets, it's just about learning a little bit more about where food comes from and how it is treated
- Mark and Darren are both ex-Tetsuya chefs and so have an incredible cooking pedigree, yet they've turned their back on 5-star dining to forge this very grass-roots, accessible, back-to-basics food movement. In the same vein as the Little Veggie Patch Co, here are two guys doing their own thing as the new, engaging faces of a very deeply rooted movement to inspire people to grow-it-local and think about the food they eat
- Mark and Darren have appeared on two seasons of "MasterChef", Darren was the co-host of "Love to Share", has his own show coming up on Lifestyle called "Charcoal Kitchen", and is one of the co-hosts and judges on the new cooking/inventing series "Recipe to Riches", which will premiere in prime time on Channel 10 in July (and run through til September). The guys have a natural charm and warmth (yes, plus the good looks), that will ensure their media-darling status only gets bigger - we've had an incredible response from the media to the book so far

Price of Valour, The Hamilton, John

From the bestselling author of 'Goodbye Cobber, God Bless You' and 'Gallipoli Sniper'.

When Hugo Throssell joined the 10th Light Horse Regiment in 1914, soon after the outbreak of the First World War, he was emblematic of the young Australian nation at that time: full of youth, vigour, courage and idealism. These traits were to see him awarded a Victoria Cross after the savage fighting for Hill 60 during the Gallipoli campaign. Badly wounded, Throssell was sent to England to recover.

By 1919, Throssell - once hailed as an Australian hero - was ready to publicly denounce the war. His stance was to forever alienate him from former comrades and the political establishment. The war affected him in other ways too, as he found himself unable to hold down a job and increasingly prone to episodes of depression. In 1933, Throssell killed himself, leaving behind his beloved wife and only child. In his triumph and tragedy he remained as emblematic to his country as he'd been in those heady days of 1914, an example of courage and sacrifice whose youth and future had been forever darkened by the experience of war.

Award-winning journalist and bestselling author John Hamilton has written a compelling narrative, giving us an extraordinary perspective of the Gallipoli battles for The Nek and Hill 60, combined with a compassionate and intimate account of the rise and fall of a real Australian hero.

The Author

John Hamilton served in the Royal Australian Navy before embarking on a long career as a reporter and foreign correspondent. His interest in Gallipoli began when he covered the 85th anniversary of the landing at Anzac Cove, inspiring his bestselling books 'Goodbye Cobber, God Bless You' and 'Gallipoli Sniper'. He has won a number of awards, including the Melbourne Press Club's Quill Lifetime Achievement Award, Walkley Awards and the National Press Club Canadian Award of Journalistic Merit. John is a lifetime Australia Day Ambassador and is currently Adjunct Professor of Journalism Leadership at Swinburne University.

Selling Points

- An extraordinary perspective of Gallipoli and the rise and fall of a real Australian hero by bestselling author John Hamilton
- The author's previous books, 'Goodbye Cobber, God Bless You' and 'Gallipoli Sniper', sold strongly and continue to backlist well
- This is the third in John Hamilton's Gallipoli series, and the strongest story to date
- This is a classic book for the Father's Day market
- "A story of exceptional courage... of rare but impressive Australian nationalism and patriotism." John Howard
- "Hamilton has won numberless tributes and awards for his writing of all kinds... The sensitive yet exact style of his prose amply performs that duty Joseph Conrad named as the first obligation of the writer: "To make you see". In 'The Price of Valour' he extends his view, for now he writes also of passionate love, of betrayal, and the crumbling of a brave man's mind." Peter Ryan, Quadrant
- "This is the third in Hamilton's efforts on World War I, and almost certainly his best. He knows the battlefield and the history and the rhythms of conflict. It's quite a story, told with maturity and sensitivity." Australian Financial Review

Damage Done, The Fellows, Warren

In 1978 Warren Fellows, Paul Hayward and William Sinclair were convicted of heroin trafficking between Thailand and Australia. They were sentenced to life imprisonment in Bangkok's notorious Bang Kwang men's prison, the Bangkok Hilton.

It was the beginning of twelve years of hell for Warren Fellows. He has never spoken of those years to anyone. Until now.

'The Damage Done' takes you behind the bars of a Bangkok prison. A place where sewer rats and cockroaches are the only nutritious food, where autocratic prison guards giggle as they deliver pulverising blows and where the worst punishment by far is the khun deo - solitary confinement, Thai style.

Brutally honest and repentant of his initial crime, Warren talks about the decade of his life he lost in leg irons. 'The Damage Done' is a brave and compelling book that poses harrowing questions on the nature of justice.

The Author

Warren Fellows has been a free man since his return from Thailand in 1989. He lives in Sydney, Australia, with his mother.

Walking Wounded

Freeman, Brian

Brian Freeman, former special forces soldier, Kokoda Track record-breaker and discoverer of the lost battlefield of Kokoda, had a belief that walking the track could have a special benefit for wounded Australian servicemen and the families of those killed in Afghanistan or Iraq.

In 2012, he proved his theory right by organising two treks that produced some extraordinary results for those who took part - from the former commando who lost both legs in Afghanistan to the father who lost his son there. 'Walking Wounded' is the inspiring accounts of the men and women on those treks - how walking in the footsteps of those who fought on the track has helped them piece their lives back together. It's also a deep insight into their service, the actions that saw them wounded and the slow process of recovery and rehabilitation that rarely features in our news stories.

Written with compassion and true empathy, 'Walking Wounded' is as important as it is moving, and paves the way for the treks with veterans and their families to continue.

The Author

Brian Freeman served as a captain with Special Forces of the Australian Army. Since 2000 he has worked running treks along the Kokoda Trail and adventure courses around the world. He lives in Brisbane.

Author Residence: Brisbane

Selling Points

- The inspirational story of how walking the Kokoda Track is helping our wounded soldiers
- Brian Freeman's credentials well established through the coverage his last book 'The Lost Battlefield of Kokoda' received
- There will be a major publicity event just after release in September, when another expedition for wounded soldiers organised by Brian finishes. It involves kayaking from Sydney to Brisbane, and the soldiers will be welcomed to Brisbane by Peter Cosgrove and Angus Houston, plus Mark Donaldson VC and Ben Roberts Smith VC, as well as a host of media
- Strong public interest in the welfare of wounded Australian soldiers gives this the broadest market appeal

Killing Kennedy

O'Reilly, Bill and Dugard, Martin

More than a million readers have thrilled to Bill O'Reilly's 'Killing Lincoln', the page-turning work of nonfiction about the shocking assassination that changed the course of American history. Now the anchor of "The O'Reilly Factor" recounts in gripping detail the brutal murder of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

In January 1961, as the Cold War escalates, John F. Kennedy struggles to contain the growth of Communism while he learns the hardships, solitude, and temptations of what it means to be president of the United States. Along the way he acquires a number of formidable enemies, among them Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, Cuban dictator Fidel Castro, and Alan Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency. In addition, powerful elements of organized crime have begun to talk about targeting the president and his brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

In the midst of a 1963 campaign trip to Texas, Kennedy is gunned down by an erratic young drifter named Lee Harvey Oswald. The former Marine Corps sharpshooter escapes the scene, only to be caught and shot dead while in police custody. The events leading up to the most notorious crime of the twentieth century are almost as shocking as the assassination itself. 'Killing Kennedy' chronicles both the heroism and deceit of Camelot, bringing history to life in ways that will profoundly move the reader. This may well be the most talked about book of the year.

The Author

Bill O'Reilly is the anchor of "The O'Reilly Factor", the highest-rated cable news show in the country. He also writes a syndicated newspaper column and is the author of several number-one bestselling books. Martin Dugard is the "New York Times" bestselling author of several books of history. His book 'Into Africa: The Epic Adventures of Stanley and Livingstone' has been adapted into a History Channel special. He lives in Southern California with his wife and three sons.

Into the Jaws of Death

Lyman, Robert

On the night of 28 March 1942 the Royal Navy and British commandos assaulted the German-held French Atlantic port of Saint-Nazaire in one of the most audacious raids of the Second World War. Their plan was simple: to drive an old destroyer packed with three tons of explosive at full speed into the outer gate of the Normandie dock.

Destroying this would deny the formidable Tirpitz battleship, currently lurking menacingly in the Norwegian fjords, a base from which it could inflict devastation upon the convoys supplying Britain from the United States. 'Operation Chariot' was dramatically successful, but at a great cost. Fewer than half the men who went on the mission returned. In recognition of their extraordinary bravery, eighty-nine decorations were awarded, including five Victoria Crosses.

'Into the Jaws of Death' is a gripping story of high daring that demonstrates how the decisive courage of a small group of men changed the course of the war.

The Author

Robert Lyman is a respected military historian and his previous books include 'The Longest Siege: Tobruk and the Battle for Africa', '1941', 'Slim, Master of War' and 'Operation Suicide'. He lives in Berkshire, England.

Crown of Thistles

Porter, Linda

Mary Queen of Scots fervently believed she had a right to the English throne - a belief that cost her her head. A vivid account of why she came to this belief from an acclaimed Tudor historian

The struggle between the fecund Stewarts and the barren Tudors is generally seen only in terms of the relationship between Elizabeth I and her cousin, Mary Queen of Scots. But very little has been said about the background to their intense rivalry. Here, Linda Porter examines the ancient and intractable power struggle between England and Scotland, a struggle intensified during the reigns of Elizabeth and Mary's grandfathers. Henry VII aimed to provide stability when he married his daughter, Margaret, to James IV of Scotland in 1503. But he must also have known that Margaret's descendants might seek to rule the entire island. 'Crown of Thistles' is the story of a divided family, of flamboyant kings and queens, cultured courts and tribal hatreds, blood feuds, rape and sexual licence on a breath-taking scale, and violent deaths. It also brings alive a neglected aspect of British history - the blood-spattered steps of two small countries on the fringes of Europe towards an awkward unity that would ultimately forge a great nation. Beginning with the unlikely and dramatic victories of two usurping kings, one a rank outsider and the other a fourteen-year-old boy who rebelled against his own father, the book sheds new light on Henry VIII, his daughter, Elizabeth, and on his great-niece, Mary Queen of Scots, still seductive more than 400 years after her death.

The Author

Linda Porter has a doctorate in History from the University of York, where she studied early modern English and French history under the late Professor Gwyn Williams. She was the winner of the 2004 'Biographers Club/Daily Mail Prize', which helped launch her on a new career as an author. Her first book, 'Mary Tudor, The First Queen', was published to critical acclaim by Portrait in 2007. She is a regular contributor to "BBC History Magazine" and "History Today". She lives in Kent.

Secrets of the Knights Templar

Hodge, S. J.

The Knights Templar are one of the most secretive and powerful religious orders in history: for over two centuries they were the elite fighting force of the Crusades. Highly trained, and adhering to a strict chivalric code, their success on the battlefield brought them both wealth and political influence. But it is the legends and secrecy surrounding the order and its Grand Masters that continue to fascinate historians and general readers alike.

'Secrets of the Knights Templar' examines each of these mysteries in turn to reveal the truth about the Knights' secret practices, rituals and codes, as well as the continued influence of the Templars today. From the true location of the Holy Grail to the Templars' involvement in the Battle of Bannockburn, and from the sudden downfall of the order to modern-day claims of descent - S. J. Hodge uncovers the hidden links behind the stories and separates historical fact from fiction.

The Author

S. J. Hodge is the author of over 60 illustrated non-fiction books, mainly on history and art-related subjects. These include 'Medieval Europe', 'British Castles' and 'The Forbidden City'.

Klare, Michael T.

The world is facing an unprecedented crisis of resource depletion - a crisis that encompasses shortages of oil and coal, copper and cobalt, water and arable land. With all of the Earth's accessible areas already being exploited, the desperate hunt for supplies has now reached the final frontiers. 'The Race for What's Left' takes us from the Arctic to war zones to deep ocean floors, from a Russian submarine planting the country's flag under the North Pole to the large-scale buying up of African farmland by Saudi Arabia and other food-scarce nations. With resource extraction growing more difficult, the environmental risks are becoming increasingly severe - and the intense search for dwindling supplies is igniting new conflicts and territorial disputes. The only way out, Michael T. Klare argues, is to alter our consumption patterns altogether, a crucial task that will be the greatest challenge of the coming century.

The Author

Michael T. Klare is the author of fourteen books, including 'Resource Wars' and 'Rising Powers, Shrinking Planet'. A contributor to "Current History", "Foreign Affairs" and the "Los Angeles Times", he is the defense correspondent for "The Nation" and the director of the Five College Program in Peace and World Security Studies at Hampshire College in Amherst, Massachusetts.

Mrs Keppel and her Daughter

Souhami, Diana

Alice Keppel, lover of Queen Victoria's son Edward VII and great-grandmother of Camilla Parker-Bowles, was the acceptable face of Edwardian adultery. It was her art to be the King's mistress yet to laud the Royal Family and the institution of marriage. She partnered the King for yachting at Cowes and helped him choose presents for his wife Queen Alexandra while remaining calmly married to her complaisant husband George. But for her daughter Violet, passionately in love with Vita Sackville-West, romance proved tragic and destructive. Mrs Keppel used all the force at her command to repress the relationship.

This fascinating and intense mother-daughter relationship highlights Edwardian and contemporary duplicity and double standards. It goes to the heart of questions about the monarchy, family values and sexual freedoms.

The Author

Diana Souhami is the author of 'Selkirk's Island' (winner of the Whitbread Biography award), 'The Trials of Radclyffe Hall' (shortlisted for the James Tait Black Prize for Biography and winner of the US Lambda Literary Award), the bestselling 'Mrs Keppel and Her Daughter' (also winner of the Lambda Literary Award and a New York Times 'Notable Book of the Year'). Her latest book is 'Murder at Wrotham Hill'. She lives in London.

Story of Philosophy, The Garvey, James and Stangroom, Jeremy

'The Story of Philosophy' sees philosophy for what it is: a passionate, exhilarating quest for human understanding that cannot be reduced to dry categories or simple definitions. It's a story with plot twists, a murder, accidental discoveries, disastrous love affairs, geniuses, idiots, monks and vagabonds. At the heart of it all are the ideas and obsessions that have captured great thinkers from the very beginning.

Packed with intriguing anecdotes and fascinating detail, James Garvey and Jeremy Stangroom bring us face to face with the most important philosophers in western history. Rigorous, refreshingly free of academic jargon, and highly accessible, this is the ideal introduction for anyone who wants to gain a new perspective on philosophy's biggest thoughts.

The Author

James Garvey has a PhD from University College London and is secretary of the Royal Institute of Philosophy, editor of "The Philosophers' Magazine" and the author and editor of several books, including 'The Ethics of Climate Change' and 'The Twenty Greatest Philosophy Books'. Skinny Chicks Eat Real Food

Avanti, Christine

Diet regimens leave dieters feeling depleted, weak and craving the satisfying tastes and textures of real foods like cheese, pasta, and even butter. This is not surprising since highly processed, chemical-laden "diet" foods may actually be causing weight gain rather than weight loss while depriving the body of the quality nutrients it needs to perform at the very highest level.

'Skinny Chicks Eat Real Food' is a cutting-edge nutritional guidebook, an easy-to-follow diet, and a whole foods cookbook all in one. It will help readers say goodbye to the food that's making them fat and sick and encourage them to eat right to achieve the fabulous body and stellar health they truly crave.

The Author

Christine Avanti, CN, is a certified nutritionist, classically trained chef, and health consultant of Food Network's "Fat Chef". Getting Past Your Past

Shapiro, Francine

A totally accessible user's guide from the creator of a scientifically proven form of psychotherapy that has successfully treated millions of people worldwide.

Whether we've experienced small setbacks or major traumas, we are all influenced by memories and experiences we may not remember or don't fully understand. 'Getting Past Your Past' offers practical procedures that demystify the human condition and empower readers looking to achieve real change.

Shapiro, the creator of EMDR (Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing), explains how our personalities develop and why we become trapped into feeling, believing and acting in ways that don't serve us. Through detailed examples and exercises readers will learn to understand themselves, and why the people in their lives act the way they do. Most importantly, readers will also learn techniques to improve their relationships, break through emotional barriers, overcome limitations and excel in ways taught to Olympic athletes, successful executives and performers.

An easy conversational style, humor and fascinating real life stories make it simple to understand the brain science, why we get stuck in various ways and what to do about it. Don't let yourself be run by unconscious and automatic reactions. Read the reviews below from award winners, researchers, academics and bestselling authors to learn how to take control of your life.

The Author

Dr. Francine Shapiro is the originator and developer of EMDR therapy. She is a Senior Research Fellow at the Mental Research Institute in Palo Alto, California, Director of the EMDR Institute, and founder of the non-profit EMDR Humanitarian Assistance Programs. She is a recipient of the International Sigmund Freud Award for Psychotherapy of the City of Vienna, the American Psychological Association Trauma Psychology Division Award for Outstanding Contributions to Practice in Trauma Psychology, and the Distinguished Scientific Achievement in Psychology Award, from the California Psychological Association.

Selling Points

the life of blur

Life of Blur, The Power, Martin

Blur defined the term 'Britpop', providing a soundtrack for the Nineties Cool Britannia movement. Racking up hit upon hit, the Essex quartet - led by Damon Albarn - became a permanent fixture on the charts, ultimately leading to an ugly, with their Northern counterparts Oasis in the race to become the UK's premier band. Yet, when the flames of Britpop ultimately cooled, Blur proved capable of surprising reinvention, embracing new sounds and textures to keep themselves one step ahead of a pop scene they helped invent. More than twenty years later, they continue to do so.

Explores the history and debunks the myths around the band formerly known as Seymour: from their art school origins at London's Goldsmith College to the multi-million selling success of Modern Life Is Rubbish, Parklife and The Great Escape.

The darker hues of Blur, 13 and 2003's Think Tank - an album that led to the ill-tempered exit of Blur's guitarist Graham Coxon - only to see his return five years later for a reunion tour marked by a triumphant headline appearance at 2009's Glastonbury festival.

Delves into every detail of Blur's pock-marked history, also shedding new light on the group's various solo activities, including Damon Albarn's experiments with Gorillaz and Graham Coxon's one man assault on the indie charts.

The Author

Martin Power has worked as a journalist for over 15 years and written well-received biographies on David Sylvian, Aerosmith, Queen, Shane McGowan, Manic Street Preachers, Jeff Beck and Pearl Jam - all published by Omnibus Press. He has lived in North London all his life.

Wilco: Sunken Treasure

Grierson, Tim

Grammy Award winning Wilco rose from the ashes of one of the most respected alt-country groups of the 1990s, Uncle Tupelo, to emerge as a celebrated (and far more popular) act in their own right. Led by frontman Jeff Tweedy, Wilco have evolved from a country-rock band into an eclectic indie-rock collective that touches on many eras and genres in their music: '70s rock, country, Beach Boys-style pop, noise-rock and folk. As a result, no two Wilco albums sound the same.

- A look at Jeff Tweedy's early life in Illinois before starting Uncle Tupelo with Jay Farrar and an examination of their four albums.
- The media attention about Wilco's fourth album, Yankee Hotel Foxtrot and the controversy surrounding it. After the recording sessions were complete, their record label rejected the album and dismissed Wilco from the label. Yet it became their most successful album to date.
- An analysis of all their studio albums including their latest - The Whole Love, which was released in September 2011.
- How Wilco's music has been inspired by a wide variety of artists and styles, including Bill Fay and Television, and has in turn influenced music by a number of modern alternative rock acts.

The Author

Tim Grierson is a music critic whose writing appears in L.A. Weekly, Screen International, Revolver, The Village Voice, Vulture and About.com. Set in Stone

Tilton, Ian

The Stone Roses were an English alternative rock band formed in Manchester in 1984. They were one of the pioneering groups of the 'Madchester' movement that was active during the late 1980s and early 1990s. The band's most notable lineup consisted of vocalist Ian Brown, guitarist John Squire, bassist Gary "Mani" Mounfield, and drummer Alan "Reni" Wren.

The band released their debut album in 1989, the self titled The Stone Roses. The album was a breakthrough success for the band. Following the release of their second album Second Coming, they split.

They re-united in October 2011, announced a tour which sold out in minutes and are currently working on their next album.

Ian Tilton knew The Stones Roses before they were famous and shot every key moment during the band's meteoric rise to fame in the late Eighties.

He photographed their first TV appearance, the Roses three famous early gigs at Blackpool Tower, Glasgow Green and Spike Island, his photos appeared on their classic first album, he was the first photographer to do a Jackson Pollock shoot with the band and Ian is the man who first got Ian Brown to pull his famous monkey face!

The Author

Ian Tilton is a professional, award-winning theatrical photographer with over 20 years experience. Based in the north west of England, he began his career in the Eighties taking photos of bands as diverse as Guns N Roses, Iggy Pop and The Stone Roses. His shot of an exhausted and tearful Kurt Cobain was hailed by Q Magazine as one of the six best rock photographs of all time - while his photo of the Stone Roses frontman Ian Brown with an orange in his mouth has gone down in rock 'n' roll photographic legend.

Celebrity Vineyards

Wise, Nick

From the hills of Napa to the mountain slopes of Tuscany, author Nick Wise went in search of great wine and famous people who are also winemakers. His astonishing trip, the wines he tasted and the incredible people he met are recounted in loving and often humorous detail in this fully illustrated new book.

Nick Wise journeyed to Central and Northern California and interviewed winemakers including film director Francis Ford Coppola and the Walt Disney family. In Canada, he interviewed actor Dan Ackroyd and in the hills of Tuscany, world-renowned composer Ludovico Einaudi. He also visited Spain where he toured Anta Banderas, the winery of actor Antonio Banderas.

He includes an opening essay on America's first vintner, Thomas Jefferson, whose Monticello estate is still producing wine from the grapes that the third President of America planted over 200 years ago.

The story of Nick's journey through wine country is filled with adventure, new discoveries, amazing people and, most important, brilliant wines (and some not so brilliant).

Written for fans of wine, travel and the rich and famous, 'Celebrity Vineyards' is a fascinating journey into a world that, for most of us, is only a dream.

The Author

After graduating from the Wine & Spirit Education Trust in London, Nick Wise worked for various historic wine companies including John Armit and Fuller and Smith and Turner. He set up corporate Champagne company casevalue.com. The company was sold in 2011.

Author Residence: London.

Beatles Illustrated Lyrics, The

Aldridge, Alan (ed)

'The Beatles Illustrated Lyrics' is the only major collection of illustrated Beatles lyrics available. Originally published in 1969, this book has become a symbol of an era, a must-have for Beatles fans and a brilliant tribute to the band that changed a generation.

Quotes from John, Paul, George and Ringo provide candid, witty, insightful commentary on the songs and their origins. Clarification of controversial lyrics is offered by the only true authorities, the Beatles themselves.

All the famous songs are included - from Can't Buy Me Love and A Hard Day's Night to Rocky Raccoon, Revolver and Yellow Submarine.

Lavish full colour illustrations by internationally famous artists and specially commissioned photographs reflect the psychedelic world the Beatles lived in and the whole generation and pop culture they influenced.

The Author

Alan Aldridge is an award winning graphic designer and artist. A colleague and friend of The Beatles, Aldridge originally put 'The Beatles Illustrated Lyrics' together in 1969. He asked notable contemporary artists to illustrate the lyrics in any way they liked and advertised for fan art from the public - this extraordinary collection is the result.

Elvis 1956

Wertheimer, Alfred

1956 was the year Elvis released his first record, made his first television appearance and started his movie career. It was the year he became a star.

Taken during the year Elvis turned 21, Alfred Wertheimer's photographs are a remarkable visual record of a defining time for rock 'n' roll's most enduring figure.

"...In many way the most exciting and intimate portrait of the legendary entertainer...You don't have to be an Elvis fanatic to recognize the importance of this book. It sheds significant light on the early days of one of the true legends of show business." Cinema Metro

Elvis 1956 is truly The King before he was The King, and the images are both insightful and stunning. Recollections by Wertheimer regarding time, place, and circumstances of each photograph offer further revelation into the daily events that paved the way for this true American idol." Her Nashville Magazine

The Author

Alfred Wertheimer began his career in 1951, publishing his work in such magazines as Life and Paris Match. When RCA Victor asked him to photograph Elvis in 1956, Wertheimer turned the assignment into a unique opportunity. No photographer ever again was allowed the same intimate access. Apart from Elvis' own recordings from this period, these images are the most compelling vintage documents of Elvis in 1956.

Briar Rose

Oliver, Jana

For Briar Rose, life is anything but a fairy tale. She's stuck in a small town in deepest Georgia with parents who won't let her out of their sight, a bunch of small-minded, gossiping neighbours and an evil ex who's spreading nasty rumours about what she may or may not have done in the back of his car. She's tired of it all, so when, on her sixteenth birthday, her parents tell her that she is cursed and will go to sleep for a hundred years when the clock strikes midnight, she's actually kind of glad to leave it all behind. She says her goodbyes, lies down, and closes her eyes...

... And then she wakes up. Cold, alone and in the middle of the darkest, most twisted fairy tale she could ever have dreamed of. Now Briar must fight her way out of the story that has been created for her, but she can't do it alone. She never believed in handsome princes, but now she's met one her only chance is to put her life in his hands, or there will be no happy ever after and no waking up.

The Author

Jana Oliver's imagination has always had the upper hand despite her attempts to house-train it. When she's not on the road tromping around old cemeteries, she can be found in Atlanta, Georgia, with her husband and far too many books.

Goth Girl

Riddell, Chris

A deliciously dark new offering from the award-winning author-illustrator of the "Ottoline" books

Ada Goth is the only child of Lord Goth. The two live together in the enormous Ghastly-Gorm Hall. Lord Goth believes that children should be heard and not seen, so Ada has to wear large clumpy boots so that he can always hear her coming. This makes it hard for her to make friends and, if she's honest, she's rather lonely.

Then one day William and Emily Cabbage come to stay at the house, and together with a ghostly mouse called Ishmael they and Ada begin to unravel a dastardly plot that Maltravers, the mysterious indoor gamekeeper, is hatching. Ada and her friends must work together to foil Maltravers before it's too late!

The Author

Chris Riddell is an accomplished artist and the political cartoonist for the Observer. He has enjoyed great acclaim for his books for children. His books have won a number of major prizes, including the 2001 and 2004 Kate Greenaway Medals. His previous work for Macmillan includes the bestselling "Ottoline" books, 'The Emperor of Absurdia' and, with Paul Stewart, 'Muddle Earth' and the "Blobheads" series. Kingsley, Charles and Attwell, Mabel Lucie

When Tom, a young chimney sweep, falls into a river and drowns, he is transformed from a twelve-year-old boy who has known nothing but brutality and poverty into a 'water-baby'. In an underwater world surrounded by fairies, insects and water nymphs, he soon discovers a new life of adventure and excitement.

The Author

Charles Kingsley was a priest of the Church of England, university professor, historian and novelist. 'The Water-Babies' was his most famous novel and was originally written and published as a serial in "Macmillan's" magazine from 1862-1863 before being published in its entirety as a book in 1863. Charles Kingsley had a special relationship with Macmillan and was godfather to Daniel Macmillan's son Maurice and Alexander Macmillan's son Malcolm. Mabel Lucie Attwell was a British illustrator known for her drawings of children, based on her daughter, Peggy. She studied at Heatherley's and St Martin's School of Art before illustrating for magazines and books, including 'Alice in Wonderland', 'Peter Pan' and 'The Water-Babies'.

Young Sherlock Holmes 6: Knife Edge

Lane, Andrew

Young Sherlock Holmes is in Ireland to solve his sixth intriguing mystery

Something sinister is afoot in the house in the west of Ireland in which Sherlock is staying. There are frightened whisperings among the servants and the house's owners are clearly scared. But who - or what? - has terrified them so much that nobody will speak out? Young Sherlock must bring all his powers of deduction to unravelling his greatest mystery yet.

Another fast-paced, brilliantly plotted adventure as teenage Sherlock investigates a new crime and comes up against a fresh crop of sinister, clever criminals.

The Author

Andrew Lane is an author, journalist and lifelong Sherlock Holmes fan. His passion for the original novels of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and his determination to create an authentic teenage Sherlock Holmes made him the perfect choice to work with the Conan Doyle Estate to reinvent the world's most famous detective as a teenage boy. He has done so to huge commercial success and critical acclaim. He lives in Dorset with his wife and son.

Charlie Joe Jackson's Guide to Extra Credit

Greenwald, Tommy

Charlie Joe Jackson, the most reluctant reader ever born, made it his mission in the first book to get through middle school without reading a single book from cover to cover. Now he's back - and trying desperately to get straight As in order to avoid going to academic camp for the summer. To do this, he will have to betray his friend, lose the girl of his dreams, and end up acting in a school play about the inventor of paper towels. Charlie Joe's not exactly the "school play kind of guy", but desperate times call for desperate measures.

The Author

Tommy Greenwald is the author of the "Charlie Joe Jackson" books, a middle-grade series about the most reluctant reader ever born. It is a projected five-book series, and is based on Tommy's three sons: Charlie, Joe and Jack. In addition, Tommy is the author of 'Jack Strong Takes a Stand', a middle-grade book about the most overscheduled boy ever born, which will be published by Roaring Brook Press in 2013. Tommy is also the Executive Creative Director at Spotco Advertising, a theatrical and entertainment advertising agency in New York City, and the co-bookwriter (with Andrew Lipka) and lyricist of John and Jen, an off-Broadway musical.

52 Reasons To Hate My Father

Brody, Jessica

Being America's favourite heiress is a dirty job... but someone's gotta do it.

Lexington Larrabee has never had to work a day in her life. After all, she's the heiress to the multi-billion-dollar Larrabee Media empire. And heiresses are not supposed to work. But then again, they're not supposed to crash brand-new Mercedes convertibles into convenience stores on Sunset Boulevard either.

Which is why, on Lexi's eighteenth birthday, her ever-absent, tycoon father decides to take a more proactive approach to her wayward life. Every week for the next year, she will have to take on a different low-wage job if she ever wants to receive her beloved trust fund. But if there's anything worse than working as a maid, a dishwasher and a fast-food restaurant employee, it's dealing with Luke, the arrogant, albeit moderately attractive, college intern her father has assigned to keep tabs on her.

In Jessica Brody's hilarious "comedy of heiress" about family, forgiveness, good intentions, and best of all, second chances, Lexi learns that love can be unconditional, money can be immaterial, and regardless of age, everyone needs a little saving. And although she might have fifty-two reasons to hate her father, she only needs one reason to love him.

The Author

Jessica Brody knew from a young age that she wanted to be a writer. She started "self-publishing" her own books when she was seven years old, binding the pages together with cardboard, wallpaper samples, and electrical tape. Brody graduated from Smith College in 2001 with a double major in Economics and French and a minor in Japanese. She went to work for MGM Studios as Manager of Acquisitions and Business Development; in 2005 she quit her job to follow her dream of becoming a published author. She is the author of nine novels - two for adults, the rest for teenagers.

Last Wild, The Torday, Piers

This is a story about a boy named Kester. He is extraordinary, but he doesn't know that yet. All he knows, at this very moment, is this:

1. There is a flock of excited pigeons in his bedroom
2. They are talking to him
3. His life will never be quite the same again...

A captivating animal adventure destined to be loved by readers of all ages

The Author

Piers Torday was born in Northumberland. His career started in theatre and live comedy at the Edinburgh Festival. He then moved into television, where he develops programme ideas. Piers' father is the celebrated author Paul Torday ('Salmon Fishing in the Yemen'). 'The Last Wild' is Piers' first novel.

Saving Silence

Blaxill, Gina

A high-octane, intricately plotted teen thriller, by an exciting voice in YA fiction

Sam is the new kid at school - he keeps himself to himself and people don't take much notice of him. Imogen is little miss perfect - she's popular, clever, good at sports and has the dream boyfriend - and yet for some reason, she's drawn to Sam.

One day Imogen is with her friends and Sam rushes up - he needs to tell her something urgently. Before he can, a car drives towards him and tries to knock him down - Imogen pushes him out of the way and saves his life.

After that, Sam avoids Imogen, but she can't stop thinking about him. What was it he wanted to tell her? Why would someone want to kill him? Why won't he speak to her now?

As Imogen and Sam get pulled deeper and deeper into the criminal underworld of East London, they have to rely on each other. Suddenly there's nothing perfect about Imogen's life, and people will never ignore Sam again...

The Author

Gina Blaxill lives in North London. She has an English degree from Cambridge University and now works in schools liaison, helping teenagers puzzle out the mysteries of higher education. Between the ages of 11 and 15 she wrote an epic 36 part story featuring over 1,000 characters - she still remembers most of their names!

Selling Points

- A compulsively page-turning thriller, with true-to-life protagonists and a gripping psychological hook
- Gina is an incredibly talented and promotable young author, who knows her readers - her job as a university liaison officer means that she talks to teenagers on a daily basis
- Perfect for fans of Sophie McKenzie

Pull of Gravity, The

Polisner, Gae

While Nick Gardner's family is falling apart, his best friend, Scooter, is dying from a freak disease. The Scoot's final wish is that Nick and their quirky classmate, Jaycee Amato, deliver a prized first-edition copy of 'Of Mice and Men' to the Scoot's father. There's just one problem: the Scoot's father walked out years ago and hasn't been heard from since. So, guided by Steinbeck's life lessons, and with only the vaguest of plans, Nick and Jaycee set off to find him.

Characters you'll want to become friends with and a narrative voice that sparkles with wit make this a truly original coming-of-age story.

The Author

Gae Polisner is a wife, mother, and family law attorney/mediator by trade - but a writer by calling. 'The Pull of Gravity' is her first novel.

Patch of Black, A

Rooney, Rachel & Allwright, Deborah (illust.)

A lyrical lullaby tale that's perfect for bedtime.

What can you do with a patch of black, a moon and a silver star?

From a magical wish-granting cloak to a hammock rocked by jungle animal friends, there's nothing that a patch of night-time sky can't become with a bit of imagination, and certainly no need to be afraid of the dark. Rachel Rooney's charming text is accompanied by beautiful, evocative illustrations from Deborah Allwright.

The Author

Rachel Rooney trained as a special needs teacher and now works with children with autism, runs writing workshops and still finds time to create wonderful, and often playful, poems. A published poet, Rachel's collection 'The Language of Cat' (Francis Lincoln) has been nominated for the 2012 CILIP Carnegie Medal. Deborah Allwright has previously illustrated two other books for Macmillan, including 'Dinosaur Sleepover'.

Selling Points

- Poetic rhyming text from a Carnegie-nominated author
- Accompanied by breathtakingly beautiful illustrations that are packed full of detail - perfect for poring over
- Featuring an adorable central character and an engaging rabbit sidekick that children will love
- With a gentle message to allay any night-time fears, there's no better book for bedtime!

Naughty Step, The

Jennings, Garth & Martin, Rafael (illust.)

Can you hear the creeeeeeeeak of the Naughty Step?

Douglas is naughty, noisy and rude, and it is not long before he finds himself banished to the Naughty Step. But this is no ordinary step, and Douglas is highly delighted when it comes to life and seems to be the most perfect partner in crime. When that old step, however, turns out to be VERY naughty indeed, it looks like Douglas might finally have met his match...

A fast-paced, action-packed adventure from an exciting new picture-book pairing.

The Author

Garth Jennings was one half of the Grammy-nominated production company Hammer and Tongs, who produced TV adverts and music videos for the likes of Blur, REM and Radiohead. In addition, he directed the 2005 film version of 'The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy' and wrote and directed the 2007 film, 'Son of Rambow'. Rafael Martin is a Spanish illustrator and animator who now lives in London.

Iban Dream

Mowe, Golda

Orphaned as a young boy in the rainforests of Borneo, Bujang is brought up by a family of orangutans, but his adult future has already been decided for him by Sengalang Burong, the Iban warpath god. On reaching adulthood, Bujang must leave his ape family and serve the warpath god as a warrior and a headhunter.

In this unique work of fantasy fiction, author Golda Mowe - herself an Iban from Borneo - uses real beliefs, taboos and terminology of the Iban (a longhouse-dwelling indigenous group of people from Borneo who, until very recently, were renowned for practising headhunting) to weave an epic tale of good versus evil.

The Author

Born and raised in Sarawak, Malaysia, to an Iban mother and Melanau father, Golda Mowe has always been interested in the culture and traditions of Borneo's indigenous people. After graduating from university in Japan and enduring ten years of corporate life, the author found herself yearning for childhood evenings spent in the longhouse, sitting in a pool of lamplight, listening to her great-aunt tell tales of jungle animals or her father recount his hunting adventures. In this way she was led back to writing and is now living in Sibu, a town on the Rejang River in Sarawak, where she expends large portions of her time researching ideas for books and short stories.

Author Residence: Sarawak, Malaysia
